EMISIA

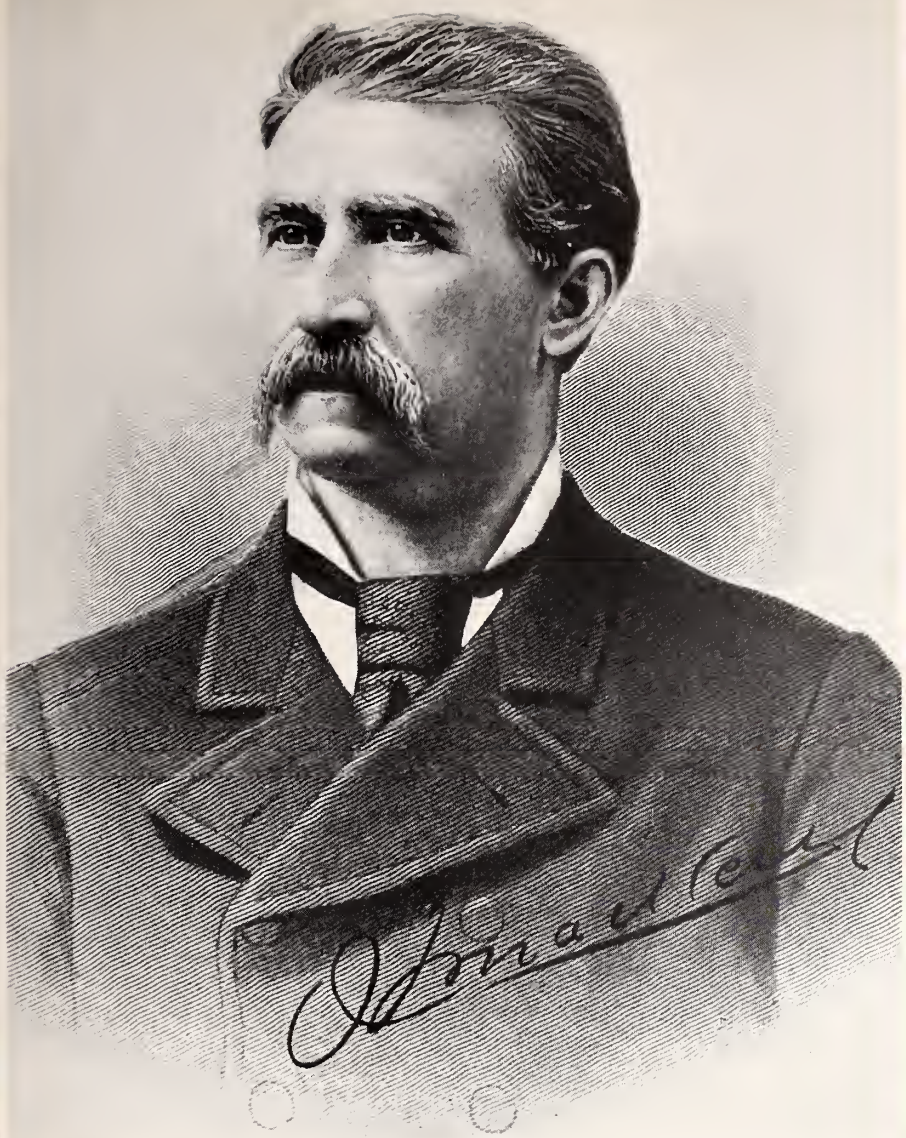

An intimate glimpse of student life at the University of Nevada during the school year 1934-35.

FOREWORD

Until 1873 silver shared the throne with gold as a standard of value in the United States. Since its demonetization in that year, incalculable work has been expended to obtain re-establishment of the bi-metallic standard. The untiring efforts of those who believe in the value of silver have at last opened the door to a prosperous future for Nevada.

CONTENTS

BOOK I — THE UNIVERSITY. The administrative heads of the university and the student body.
BOOK II — THE CAMPUS. Student life, as portrayed through the many organizations on the "Hill".
BOOK III — COMPETITION. A resume of varsity, minor and intramural sports contests of the school year.

DEDIC

Silver is so intimately associated with mining in the State of Nevada that operations must be discontinued when the price of this metal is lowered. In the face of the almost complete stagnation of their major industry, the citizens of Nevada have shown a quiet but determined faith in the future which commands the utmost admiration. The efforts of those who have striven for the use of silver as a standard of monetary value have not been in vain, for results of their work are becoming apparent with each passing day. So to the people of the State of Nevada, to those who have labored long and unceasingly for the return of silver, and to the future of the State this volume is dedicated, with the hope that tomorrow will justify the faith, and that the labor will not have been in vain.

CAMPUS VIEWS

ARTEMISIA HALL

A drowsy afternoon in the early fall. The lawn and trees by the lake are a play of light and shadow, with Artemisia Hall framed by arching branches. Afternoon classes will soon be over, and students will stroll along the walk to the tram, enjoying the few brief days that remain before King Winter's arrival. Soon the leaves and grass will be painted brown . . . and orange . . . all the colors of the rainbow.

THE DRIVEWAY

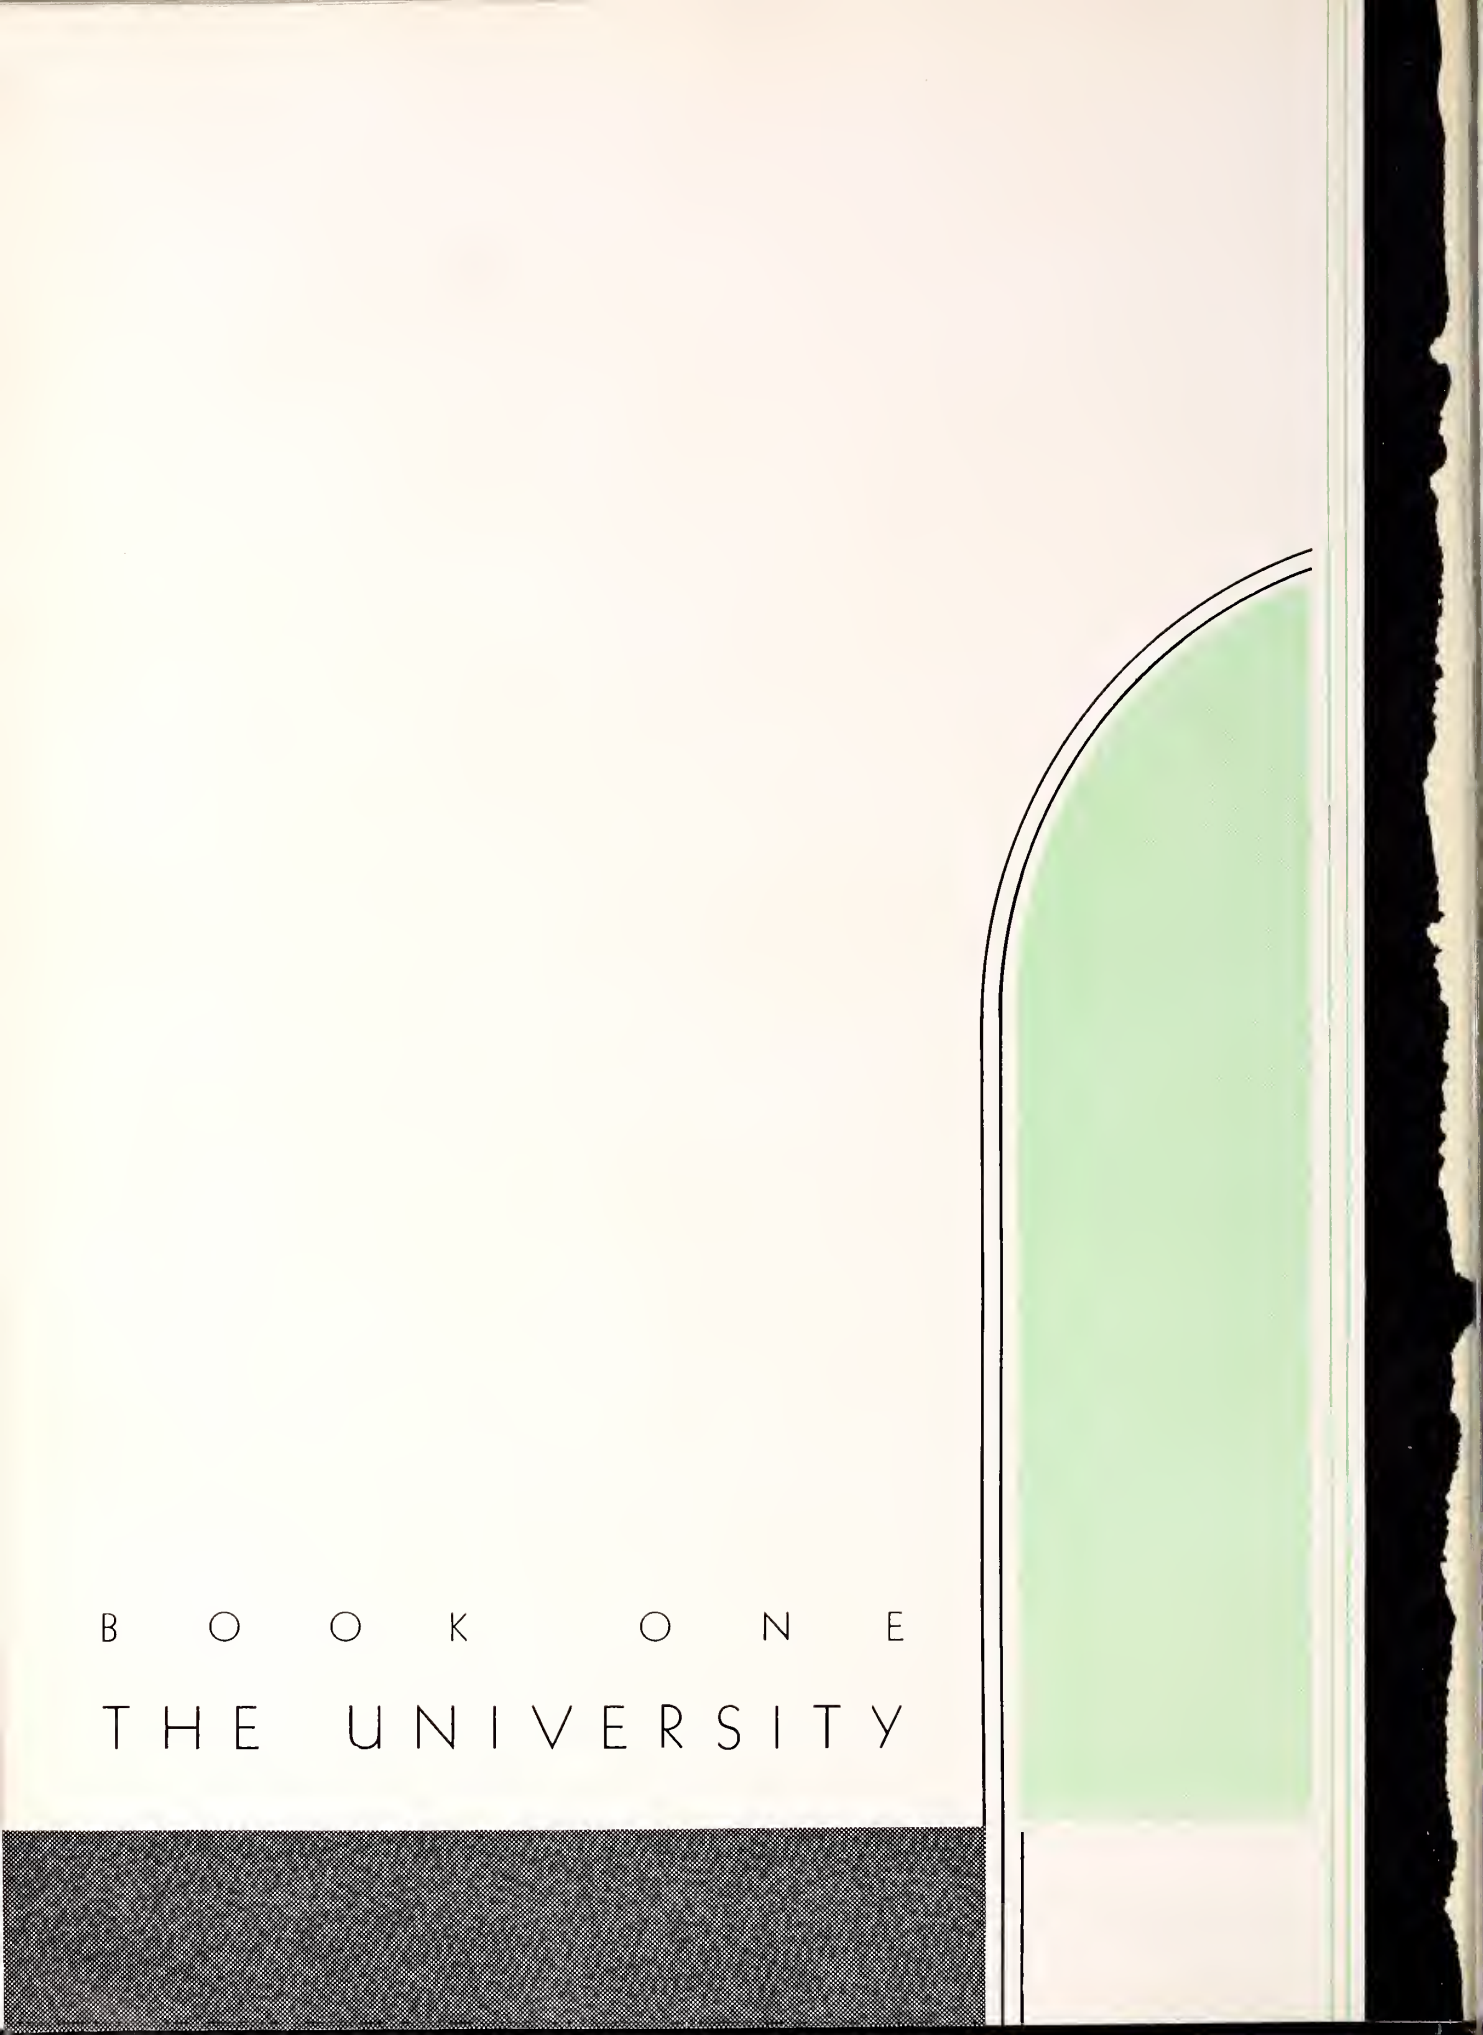

A sudden snow storm during the evening has brought a light covering of white to the entire campus . . . and then the sky clears, and a full moon casts brilliant shadows from the trees across the rolling slopes. The ivy-covered wall near the gates becomes a living thing, ever-changing in the light of the lamp. It is a cruel, unrelenting night . . . but there is beauty in its cruelty, and forgiveness in its exactitude.

MANZANITA LAKE

Spring has touched the campus again with its magic finger. The feeling of life, and living . . . of something wonderful about to happen . . is in the air. The lake is slightly ruffled by a whispering breeze which brings with it the scent of green pines in the Sierras. The swan floats serenely on the water, at times preening himself, yet ever anxious to be into the air and away.

THE UNIVERSITY

E X E C U T I V E

Luxury of idle moments spent with old friends . . . gayly living the past, smilingly anticipating the new day . . . while over the busy wires hum the messages of a rapidly-changing, and prosperous nation.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Nevada's heavy drought and depression cloud, breaking, reveals a silver lining. The New Deal Federal agencies, abetted by the Governor and the Legislature, steadily achieve betterment throughout the State. The basic industries, mining and agriculture, are being awakened to new life.

Battalions of prospectors, trained in special courses, hunt gold and silver; old mining camps revive because of rising silver and gold prices; a two million dollar Federal loan insures new life in the Ely copper fields; Federal and State cooperation promise Boulder power to Pioche and to Ely with resulting new mining operations on a scale great even in world terms. And who knows—a greater than Comstock camp may emerge!

New hope has come to argiculture. Federal funds have purchased surplus crops and live stock, have prevented foreclosures, have improved farm homes, have drilled hundreds of wells in desert places, have promised great impounding reservoirs, and have raised prices for farm and ranch products. And now Nature, heaping Winter's white gold in the Sierras, seems about to complete Nevada's new deal for agriculture by reversing the downward precipitation curve of the last forty years!

Altogether it seems Nevada is just emerging from a chrysalis into a new and rarer beauty and bounty of living.

In all this the University rejoices. The people of the State, so generous to the University in these difficult years, will surely in the new day of their greater abundance take pride in helping the University to complete its plant, perfect its equipment and advance its standards for staff and student life.

The year just closing on the campus has kept step with the state's advance. It has been a year of vigorous progress despite the limitations, institutional and individual, of lingering depression. Higher standards of scholarship for the whole student body and for special groups, new records of wisdom in the publications, an outstanding Alumni Bulletin edited by a Staff Alumnus, deliberate discard of outworn traditions, wholly new plans for handling Varsity Athletics, five score students aided Federally and in turn serving a score of University departments, betterment of buildings and equipment by means of both Federal and State special aid, widened and heightened activity by special student cultural groups in dramatics, debate, music, art and special science lines, founding of a Cercle-Francais, new University radio lecture contacts with the whole state, new plans to extend adult education offerings, completely revised cirriculum in Agriculture with new offerings in Forestry and Agricultural Economics, advanced quality standards for entrance, refunding of the University's Bureau of Mines—our Campus this year has been alive with factual gains in high and worthy lines through student and staff endeavor towards a new deal.

How fitting then it is that the Artemisia should crown the year with an edition developing a silver and new deal theme. Congratulations to the Artemisia staff, successful in recording the advance of this fruitful campus year so beautifully as to make the volume itself another evidence of the University's brave and constructive living.

DR. WALTER E. CLARK

PRESIDENT OF THE UNIVERSITY

The progress of the university has been rapid under the leadership of Dr. Walter E. Clark. The enrollment has doubled, and the standard of instruction of the entire institution has been raised during his administration. Four of the main campus buildings have been added, and many of the other structures have been renovated and enlarged. Dr. Clark is an educator and economist of note, and his administration has been one of which the state and the students themselves may be proud.

Williams, Ross, Brown, Olmstead, Clark.

BOARD OF REGENTS

The government of the affairs of the University of Nevada is in the hands of a Board of Regents provided for in the original constitution of the state. Since 1917, when the statutes of the state creating this board were last amended, it has consisted of five members elected by the people at large, one each two years to serve a term of ten years.

Mr. George E. Brown of Reno is the chairman of the present board, of which the other members are Mr. Silas E. Ross of Reno, Mr. George Wingfield of Reno, Mr. A. C. Olmstead of Wells, and Mr. Frank Williams of Goodsprings. Miss Carolyn Beckwith, secretary to Dr. Walter E. Clark, serves as secretary of the board.

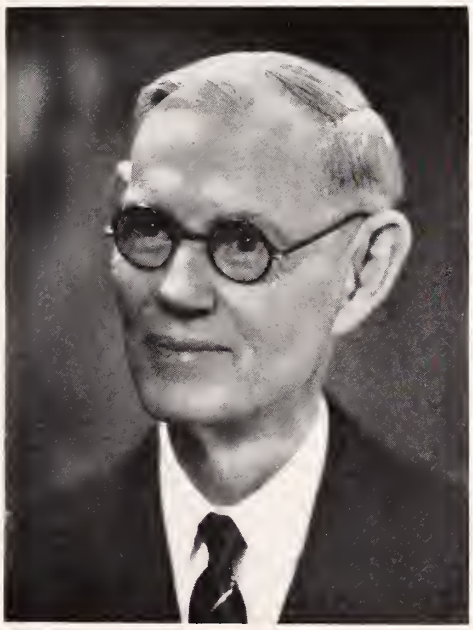

The board members are responsible to the voters of the state for their administration of university affairs. They have control of all expenditures of money accruing to the university from any source. They elect and fix the salaries of all members of the university staff, whom they hold responsible for setting and maintaining proper standards for all phases of the university's life.

In spite of the fact that no compensation is received for their services, members of the Board of Regents spend many hours solving the problems of the university which come to them in administering their office. It is through the very devoted labors of the present members of the board that the doors of the university have been kept open and that steady progress has been made during these recent years of depression.

GEORGE S. BROWN

Mr. Brown has been a member of the Board of Regents since 1927, and chairman of that body since 1929. A graduate of Brown University, he took a two-year graduate course at Columbia Law School and was admitted to the Nevada Bar Association in 1897. He has practiced law in the state since that date, and was judge of the Fourth Nevada Judicial District from 1902 until 1911. Mr. Brown rejoices at the progress made by the University of Nevada, and devotes much of his time to the problem of furthering its advancement.

MAXWELL ADAMS

As vice-president of the University of Nevada, Dean Adams has been an able assistant to President Clark in administrative affairs since 1917. In addition he is dean of the College of Arts and Science, the largest in the university, in which the enrollment has grown steadily until there are now four hundred and sixty students taking work in the various departments. Dean Adams is vitally interested in organic chemistry, and conducts several advanced classes in this subject. He has published a number of research articles in this field.

R. C. THOMPSON

Sincerely interested in the well-being of the students, Dean of Men R. C. Thompson has done much to encourage high scholarship and promote better interest in student activities. He has established the revolving scholarship trophy which is presented each semester to the fraternity having the highest average during the past four months. He sponsors a weekly luncheon of fraternity presidents, where common problems are discussed. The administration of the office of dean of men has been one of helpfulness and kindly guidance.

MARGARET E. MACK

Miss Mack's duties as dean of women bring her in contact with the large majority of women students on the campus. She is actively interested in their problems, and is always ready with a helping hand. As chairman of the student employment committee, Miss Mack has aided many students in finding employment, and part time jobs created by the FERA funds have been filled under the supervision of this committee. Serving with the dean of men on the Calendar Committee, Miss Mack helps regulate the social affairs of the campus by arranging dates for social functions.

C. H. GORMAN

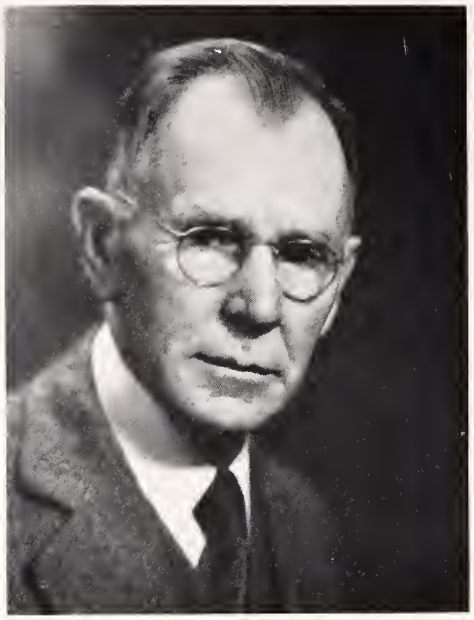

Since coming to the University of Nevada as comptroller, Mr. Gorman has contributed much to the well-being of the institution. He has ably expended state funds and all federal land grant money given the university. In addition student body fees collected by the Board of Regents are kept on deposit and disbursed on order of Finance Control Committee. When he assumed the office of comptroller, Mr. Gorman installed a bookkeeping system which has been adopted by a number of other colleges.

MISS LOUISE SISSA

In her position as registrar Miss Sissa has complete control over all data concerning student registration and enrollment, as well as being in charge of scholarship records of all the students. Her kindly attitude and helpful interest have encouraged no few Nevada students to higher ideals of scholarship. It has been said of Miss Sissa that she knows every student on the campus by name. Whether or not this be true, she has earned a warm place in the hearts of Nevada students.

F. H. SIBLEY

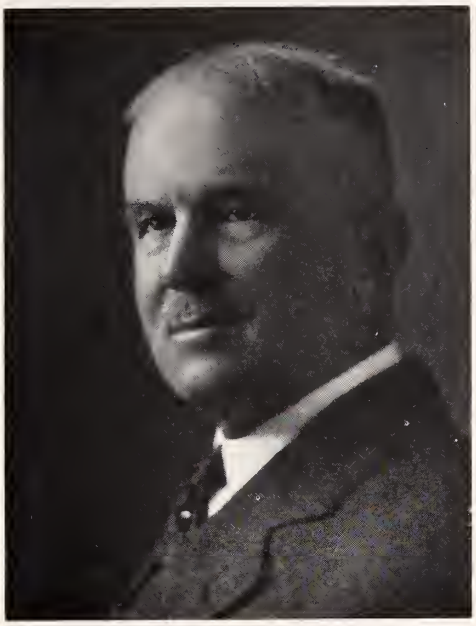

Dean Sibley is very proud of the progress which has been made by students enrolled in the schools of engineering. Placement of graduates has far exceeded that which would normally be expected when the size of the graduating classes is considered. Pursuing a well-constructed plan of buying, many essential pieces of apparatus have been added to the laboratory equipment during the past decade, and at the present time the courses offered in engineering compare most favorably with those of colleges of like size in the United States.

ROBERT STEWART

When Mr. Stewart came to the University of Nevada in 1920 as dean of the College of Agriculture, he brought with him a high reputation as a specialist in soil studies. During his administration he has made some noted experiments in developing soil fertilizers. From the date of the founding of the College of Agriculture until 1920, thirty-four men were graduated, forty-five per cent of whom afterwards made their livelihood in agricultural pursuits. Since 1920, seventy men have been graduated and ninety per cent are today engaged in agricultural work.

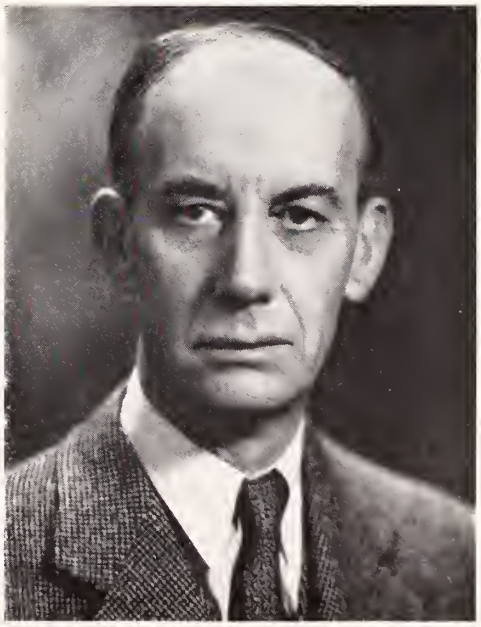

JOHN W. HALL

When the School of Education was reorganized at the University of Nevada in 1920, Dean Hall was selected as head of the department. Since then he has continued his service to the university in preparing students for the teaching profession. Besides outlining a program for teacher training, Dean Hall's department is sincerely interested in the student. Courses in practice teaching are given, and the department performs an invaluable service through its Appointment Committee in placing students in teaching positions throughout the state.

JOHN A. FULTON

From 1900 until 1924, Director Fulton worked on various mining projects in the United States and Africa. When he came to the University of Nevada in 1924, he brought this practical experience with him, and has elevated the Mackay School of Mines to a high degree of efficiency. In addition to his university work, Mr. Fulton is director of the State Mining Bureau, which has been a great aid to the state's mining industry. He takes a personal interest in the future of the students, and the school has placed a large number of its graduates each year.

THE SCHOOL YEAR

In spite of curtailed income, the University of Nevada has been able to maintain its standard of instruction and continue to improve the equipment of the various departments and the appearance of the campus during the year. Various government relief projects have been utilized to improve the buildings and grounds, accomplishing work which has been planned for a number of years but which could not be completed because of lack of university funds normally utilized for these purposes.

It was predicted that enrollment would suffer heavily during the years of depression, but the past several semesters' registration figures have disproved this contention. The largest class in the history of the institution was graduated last spring, while the registration during the present school year is only one hundred and fifty-four below the record established in 1931-'32. One thousand and four students are taking undergraduate or graduate work.

Scholarship also has been climbing during the past few years. Students are taking class work more seriously, and department heads and instructors alike declare that class projects which they would not have attempted to present a few years ago have been successfully completed this year. Dean of Men R. C. Thompson reports in March that . . . "A check of the scholarship of nine organized groups discloses that each of them had a better scholarship record in the semester just closed than the average of that group for the last ten semesters".

Students affairs have also prospered during the last few years, and particularly during the past school year. The new constitution, which was adopted two years ago, is proving workable as the students become accustomed to its provisions. The death blow of combines was struck during the spring elections in April, when the candidates for A.S.U.N. president and A.W.S. president ran on tickets which were independent of combine backing. The Senate has also proven a stumbling block to political maneuverings, and has contributed to the downfall of combines.

A new plan for control of athletics was adopted by the students this semester. If the Board of Regents accepts this proposal, administration of all athletics will be placed in their hands next January, and the student body will be relieved of considerable worry and responsibility which has always attended the handling of these activities.

Under the business-like administration of Finance Control Committee, student finances have been kept in very good order, with the result that a sinking fund has been established and maintained. As this fund grows, the danger of the A.S.U.N. suffering under the load of unexpected expenses has been lessened. All organizations drawing on the treasury have benefitted by this move, and activities have prospered during the year.

If the proposed PWA loan of one and a half million dollars is granted the university, the building program will be completed. This program includes the erection of a new administration building, an arts and science building, a gymnasium and hospital, and the paving of the campus which is not now covered by lawn. These plans, coupled with an upswing in the general business conditions of the state, and a resumption of mining activities, indicate a prosperous future for the University of Nevada.

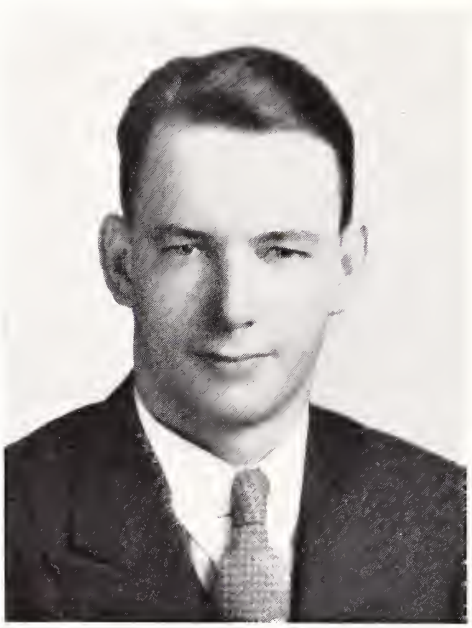

P E R S O N N E L

The world crashing . . . each minute bringing new disasters . . . human brains unable to grasp the tremendously rapid rout of the Silver King . . . to satisfy a hungry system a dynasty was destroyed.

JOE McDONNELL

When Joe McDonnell leaves the office of graduate manager this spring, the student body will lose a valuable assistant. In the two years that he has served in this position he has contributed greatly to the present excellent condition of student finances. At the beginning of the fall semester the publications managers installed a uniform bookkeeping system under his supervision. This has reduced the amount of work formerly necessary to keep the records in order. In addition, McDonnell has handled the gates at all athletic contests.

JAMES CAZIER

During "Jim's" administration as A.S. U.N. president several major changes in student body government have been made. Most important of these is the placing of all athletics in the hands of the Board of Regents under a new plan recently adopted by the students. This new system will go into effect the first of next year, and it is predicted that Nevada will enjoy a better coordinated season in all the sports. Many old traditions were abolished by the Senate this semester, and the remaining few ones have been rigidly enforced.

NELL LOZANO

Miss Lozano, as president of the Associated Women Students, has, in a large measure, been responsible for the progressive period enjoyed by that organization this past school year. She was instrumental in the establishment of the new loan fund, and has taken an active part in organizing the Big Sister plan for assisting freshman women. Miss Lozano has successfully encouraged attendance at the meetings by providing varied entertainment. As vice-president of the A.S.U.N., she also presided over several student body and Senate meetings.

FLORINE FRANK

When motions came "thick and fast" during heated discussions in student body and Senate meetings last year it was Mrs. Maher's duty as A.S.U.N. secretary to take notes hurriedly and correctly for the minutes record. This she has done, keeping the minutes in good form. During Mrs. Maher's term in office, the practice of publishing Senate meeting minutes in the Sagebrush was initiated, and this has since been continued. In addition to her duties as secretary, Mrs. Maher served as a member of Publications Board.

A. S. U. N. SENATE

Maintaining its position as the main governing body of the Associated Students, the A.S.U.N. Senate has made many progressive steps during the last year. Representatives from the different organizations have taken an active part in the numerous discussions, realizing that it is intended that each student be a part of the administration. Appointments have been based entirely upon the merits of the individual in question, and no one faction has been given preference. As a result there has been an almost complete absence of politics during the entire year, and it is predicted that this evil of long standing will completely disappear in the near future.

One of the most important pieces of legislation undertaken during the year was the abolishment of many old traditions. Since the student body itself seemed incapable of deciding this problem, the Senate assumed the initiative and eliminated all but a few of the many "do's" and "don't's" on the list.

A. S. U. N. SENATE

In order that those traditions which remained might be rigidly enforced, paddling was restored as a means of punishment, and the upperclass committees were designated as the enforcement bodies. The Soph Vigilance Committee was abolished entirely, since it was felt that the members were incapable of requiring the proper observance by the first-year men.

Other major projects undertaken by the Senate include the establishment of an employment bureau in the office of the graduate manager, which has enabled a number of students to obtain jobs, attempts to bolster student body spirit and encourage active participation in activities; active discussion of all proposed amendments to the A.S.U.N. constitution; keeping a close check on the work accomplished by its appointees, and replacing those who failed to properly execute their assignments; and encouraging student attendance at all university functions.

ASSOCIATED WOMEN STUDENTS

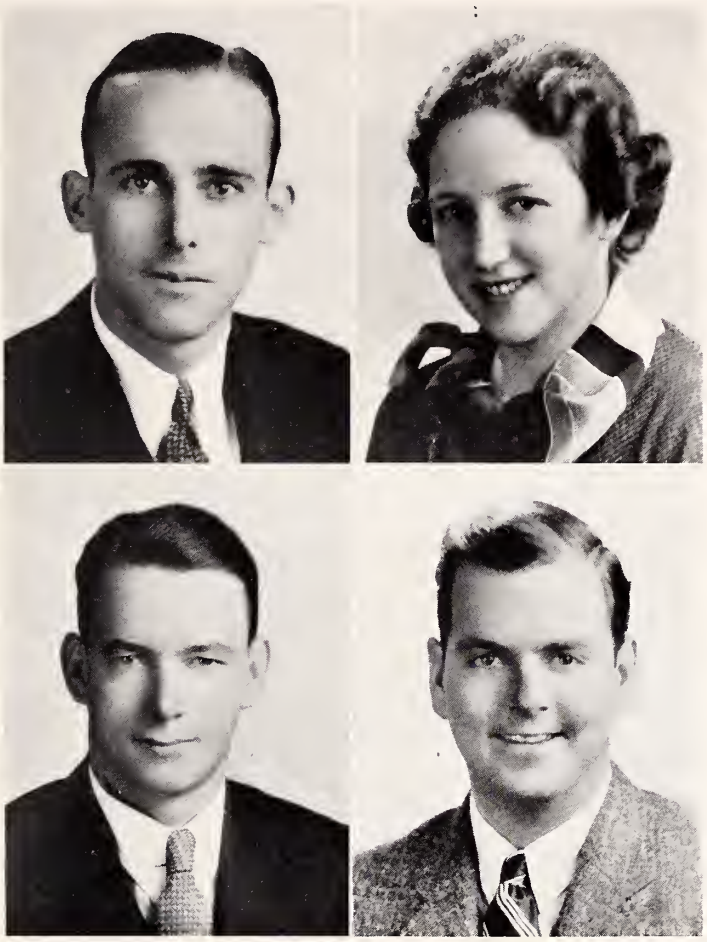

Culminating its second year under the new constitution, the Associated Women Students proved its value by completing many activities.

During the state Admission Day celebration the honor of selecting a queen to rule during the day was given the A.W.S. Emma Aznarez was selected after a vote held among the women students.

A loan fund, available to any A.W.S. member upon application to Dean Mack, was instituted this year. Funds for this are to come from the fashion show and contributions from different local women's groups.

Abolishment of the point system of holding office was accomplished during the fall semester, permitting women to hold any number of offices.

The annual "Buy-a-Brick" campaign netted the group more money than in any previous year. Also very successful financially were the sales of refreshments at all of the football and basketball games.

FINANCE CONTROL

When the semester ends this spring, the finances of the student body will be in excellent condition as a result of the work of the Finance Control Committee. Charged with the administration of approximately twenty thousand dollars a year, the members of this important board have attempted to spend these funds in a businesslike way. As a result the end of this semester will find the bank account showing a favorable balance, and almost two thousand dollars in a savings account as insurance against unexpected bills. This has all been accomplished with the cooperation of all activities which are financed by the student body, in spite of the fact that the football season last fall was more expensive than usual.

Professor F. W. Wilson has served as chairman for two years, and his policies during his administration have been largely responsible for the excellent condition of the treasury.

Judge Souter, ardent supporter of the university, gives a stirring talk before a large crowd during the bonfire rally on Thursday evening. A large crowd attended this opening of Nevada's Homecoming Day celebration.

HOMECOMING DAY

In tribute to the returning grads, Nevada welcomed her own in a three-day Homecoming celebration held this year October 25, 26, and 27. The fine spirit and enthusiasm of our alumni was well-evidenced by the increased alumni registration at the beginning of the festivities, for Homecoming to our grads means "Put Nevada First". Every organization, group, and individual was affected by this fifteenth Homecoming in some way or another. Bonfire rallies, street parades, drilling contests, cross-country race, Wolves' Frolic, varied exhibits, football game, and dance were a few of the highlights demanding the attention of the alumni.

The real progress of the university and the feeling which Clarence H. Mackay retains for the institution are described by Silas E. Ross, member of the board of regents, at the annual luncheon held in the gymnasium.

MACKAY DAY

Mackay Day was instituted in 1913, the 1935 edition combining the features of the first celebration with improvements of subsequent ones. Thirty days before this event, true Nevada men cultivated their facial herbage in preparation for the annual Mackay Day Whiskerino.

Carrying out its purpose of being a general campus clean-up day in honor of Mackay, many worthy work projects were completed. The luncheon has evolved into a gathering of importance with prominent alumni addressing the crowded gymnasium. The annual Whiskerino dance concluded the schedule of the committee.

UPPERCLASS COMMITTEES

With the abolishment of the Sophomore Vigilance Committee by the A.S.U.N. Senate, all responsibility for the punishment of misdemeanors among the underclass students falls upon the shoulders of the upperclass committees. At the same time that this drastic action was taken, the frosh dink, queening in the library, sophomore lakings, requiring the frosh to carry the bible at all times, and the spring contest between the two lower classes were abolished by the Senate. Offenders are punished by paddlings in case of the men students. The women have a much more difficult problem, as they are not able to administer physical punishment to co-ed offenders. The committee requires the violators to perform before the A.S.U.N. meetings, sweep the walks, or scrub the senior bench and the library steps.

The Oath

I about to be graduated from the University of Nevada.

Acknowledging

my great debt to the Giver of all life, who has given me life in Nevada, the State whose people are most blest with pioneering strengths and whose land, of all America, is freshest from His hand and most truly His Cathedral, with mountain columns, star vaults and sage-incensed aisles, hourly urging me to reverent thinking and living.

Acknowledging

my great debt to the race which has made me heir to civilization, wrought out by its centuries of toil and of thought and preserved by the bravery of its heroes, the wisdom of its sages and the faith of its saints.

Acknowledging

my great debt to this Nation and to this Commonwealth, which through guardian organization and through open school doors, have jointly made it possible for me to come into the full riches of my natural and my racial inheritances.

Here and Now Pledge life long loyalty to the shaping ideals of American civilization.

Liberty. bounded by law drawn for the common weal.

Equality of opportunity for all, and

Justice. administered in accord with the dictates of the common will, lawfully expressed.

Here and now further pledge that in all the years to be granted to me and to the fullness of my allotted strength

I Shall Serve,

both alone and with others, to the high ends that un-cleanness, greed, selfishness and pride shall lessen; that cleanness, charity, comradeship and reverence shall weaken and that thus, my generation shall bequeath an even better and nobler civilization than came to it.

SENIOR CLASS

For four years the Class of 1935 has been faithfully upholding Nevada traditions and contributing to the marked progress our university has made in the last several years. Under the guidance of Paul Turner, Class manager, the Seniors have enjoyed a successful year which will close with Senior Week. The committee appointed to make arrangements for this week of celebration consisted of William McMenamin, chairman, Bill Gelder, Walter Hargreaves, Sarah Graves, Charles Jensen, Carleton McCulloch, Elizabeth Young, Dorothy Nason, Henry Smith, and Sam Ackerman.

During this week the annual Pilgrimage is made by the class in caps and gowns, the traditional baseball game between the faculty and the senior men is played, and the class bids farewell to the campus.

As it has been done in the past, this class has presented a gift to the university. The gift committee was headed this year by Edwin Martinez.

JUNIOR CLASS

The Junior class this year functioned under Jack Hughes as class manager. If the number of activities that a group has to its credit is any indication the class of '36 promises much in the way of future success. There are students from the class in all phases of college life represented upon the Nevada campus. There are members in all of the major and minor sports of the school, in all organizations in which a junior is eligible for membership, in all of the creative activities as dramatics, debate, publications, and music, as well as in student government.

When this class were freshmen they did not lack the true Nevada spirit. The financial collapse of Nevada banks in the fall of that year left the A.S. U.N. in very poor financial condition. In order to turn all its funds over to the associated students, the class cancelled the Frosh Glee for that year.

BRYCE RHODES
Prom Chairman

JUNIOR CLASS

The highlight of the formal season of the fall of '34 was the annual Junior Prom, which was held at the Nevada State building on the evening of November twenty-fourth. Though it was not crowded, it was one of the most enjoyable of the dances sponsored by the junior class. The decorations were new, the entertainment was novel, and the music in charge of Darrel Berry was especially arranged for the occasion.

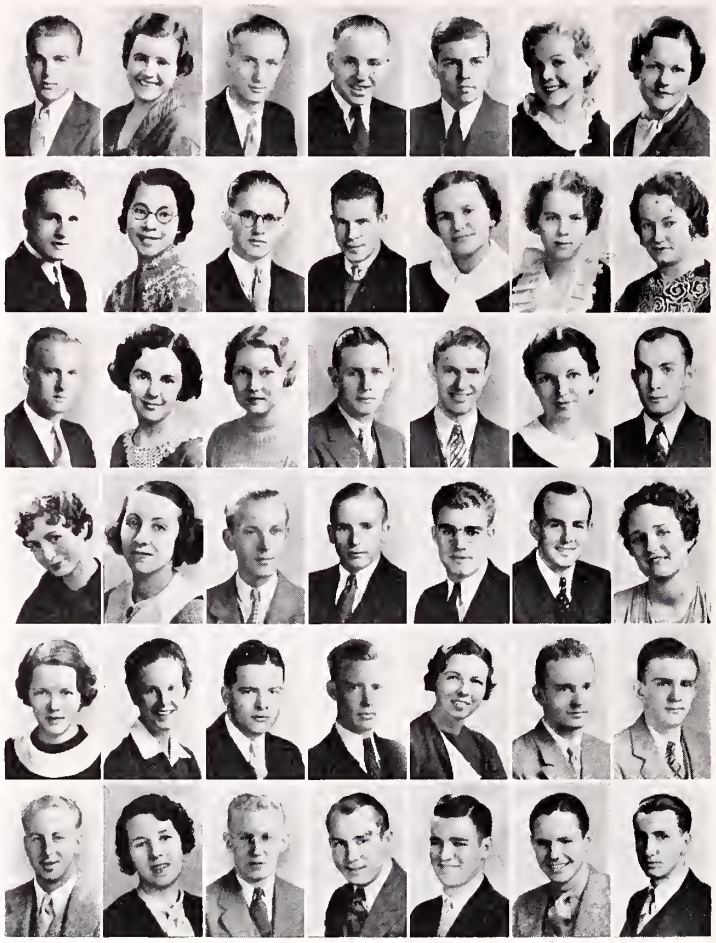

The ballroom was decorated in a silver and blue theme with the class numerals forming an appropriate background for the orchestra.

The Prom is the most important formal of the year, with the possible exception of the Senior Ball, which is also in charge of the Junior class.

The chairman of the committee that arranged for the dance, Bryce Rhodes, was assisted by Lynn Gerow, Sterling Johnson, Katherine Dondero, Cornelia Arentz, Harry Austin, and Frank Sullivan.

JUNIOR CLASS

The Senior Ball was one of the most elaborate of the class formals held this year. The dance was given in the auditorium of the Nevada State building on the evening of May tenth, the last day of the Senior Week. The ballroom was cleverly arranged, the committee following a theme of silver and blue. Darrell Berry and his seven-piece orchestra presented several unique dance numbers in the course of the evening.

The custom was continued this year of allowing Senior couples free admittance. Formerly only members of the Junior and Senior classes were privileged to attend the Senior Ball, but this year everyone was invited.

As in previous years, the Junior class was in complete charge of preparations. The chairman of the Ball committee was J. D. Stephens, who was assisted by Ray Armstrong, Bob Best, Dorothy Roseberry, Frances Burke, Jack Quaid, and Sterling Johnson.

JUNIOR CLASS

One day each year is set apart by the Junior class to cast all cares aside and really enjoy themselves on the annual picnic. In celebration the class usually journeys to Pyramid Lake, Lake Tahoe, or to some other near-by spot. The date chosen this year was April twenty-sixth, near the end of the school year. The day was spent at Lake Tahoe diminishing the food supply and playing organized games. Many diversions which one can find only at Lake Tahoe filled the rest of the day.

Though Junior Cut Day is not authorized by university authorities, this one-day vacation is greatly appreciated by the class members.

Jack Hughes, class manager, appointed George Hadlen chairman of this year's Junior Cut Day committee. Other members of the committee included Ruth Bails, Katherine Dondero, Joseph Kelley, Leland Ward, John Franklin, and Lindsay Green.

SOPHOMORE CLASS

WILLIAM HORGAN
Manager

Activities of the sophomore class this year were few, being confined to anti-frosh patroling and the sponsoring of the traditional Soph Hop.

As seems to have been the custom for the past several years, the sophs came out on the bottom of the lower-class feud. No blame can be attached to the class of '37; it is just part of the new Nevada spirit. One laking was attempted by the vigilance committee but the unconventional frosh turned the tables and laked the sophomores instead. Those appointed by Class Manager Bill Horgan to the vigilance committee were Allen Cromwell, chairman, Richard Haman, Frank Showalter, William Cashill, Wayne Poulsen, Harold Herz, Russell Byington, Frank Smalley, Charles Allen, Jack Roguin, Kevin Callahan, Joe Lommori, Richard Sauer, Cletus Libbey, Wayne Kennedy, Jack Richardson, Stanley Smith, Pierno Barengo, Joe Littlefield, Bill Guild, and Guy Morris. This group was later abolished by the Senate.

The annual Soph Hop carried out a football theme, with the State Building dance floor being arranged to represent a gridiron. Other novelties of the dance also created a football atmosphere. Those on the committee included Kirk Fairhurst, chairman, Betty Bowman, Marie Morgan-Creps, Elizabeth Juniper, Majorie Totman, Elma May, Bill Johnstone, Fred Corle, Charles Stewart, Walter States, Craig Moore, Bob Butler and Louis Wiener.

Seated: Juniper, Bowman, May. Standing: Fairhurst, Rose, States.

FRESHMAN CLASS

Under the leadership of Kenneth Powell, the class of '38 has already proven itself worthy of carrying out the Nevada spirit and traditions in future years. So active has the class been during its first year on the campus that suggestions made during the "Spiritual Revival" to turn the whole school over to the Frosh met with the approval of many of those present.

In the one laking attempted by the Soph Vigilance committee the would-be victims rebelled and threw all sophomores and upperclassmen in the vicinity into the cold waters of Manzanita. The annual Soph-Frosh field Day was scheduled for Homecoming but the second-year men failed to appear and the freshmen won by default. '38 will be the last class to win a field day, since the event was abolished later by action of the Senate.

The task of painting the block "N" was performed twice, once in the fall on October 13, and in the spring, on March 9. An innovation, that of furnishing refreshments to the hungry men was tried by the women, with the food being prepared on the spot instead of bringing lunches already prepared.

The only social event sponsored by the Freshmen class, the Frosh Glee, was given February 9 in the Century Club. Using a decorative scheme of St. Valentine's Day, the event was declared a success by all those attending. Music was furnished by Darrell Berry's orchestra and entertainment by the Stringham sisters.

From the underground depths of the West came Silver . . . bringing the finest artistry in the world to give pleasure and to soothe the souls hardened by the continual struggle with the grimly primitive Frontier.

ARTEMISIA

This volume of The Artemisia comes to you as the work of a large staff, making it a composite of many personalities. A treatment of the national issue of silver, which vitally affects the state and the university alike, is carried out in an unusual way. These innovations, we believe, make the 1935 Artemisia very unlike its predecessors.

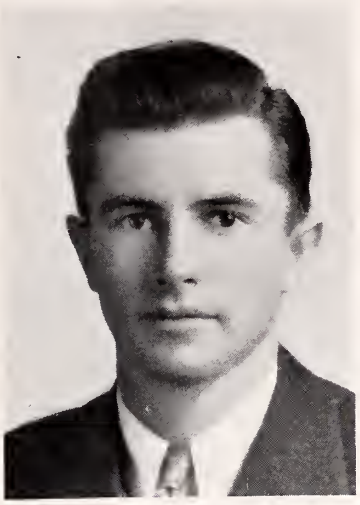

NED MOREHOUSE, Editor

A R T E M I S I A

The advertising section of the 1935 Artemisia has been completely changed by the manager's staff. New ideas include the use of a large number of illustrations, and the insertion of full-page advertisements from a number of counties. The large volume of advertising contracted has been a potent factor in the publishing of this volume.

ANGELO URRUTIA, Manager

S A G E B R U S H

Complimented many times during the year by seasoned newspaper men for the selection of head styles, makeup, and news timeliness, the Sagebrush has been published weekly during the year as the official student newspaper. The editorial policy has been firm, yet fair, on the many trying issues which have at times confronted the campus.

S A G E B R U S H

Unhearalded and unsung, the members of the advertising staff of The Sagebrush go quietly about their work, "chasing" ads to cover the expenses of publishing the paper. And they have done their work well, for a number of large issues have been published. The advertising section has been well written, with many display pictures being used.

NEWS BUREAU

A press service to state papers, other college papers, and leading journals of the Pacific coast is furnished by the News Bureau through the medium of regular news dispatches. This year the bureau has released a large volume of personal news of the students on the campus, and music, dramatics, debate and athletics have been featured largely.

PUBLICATIONS BOARD

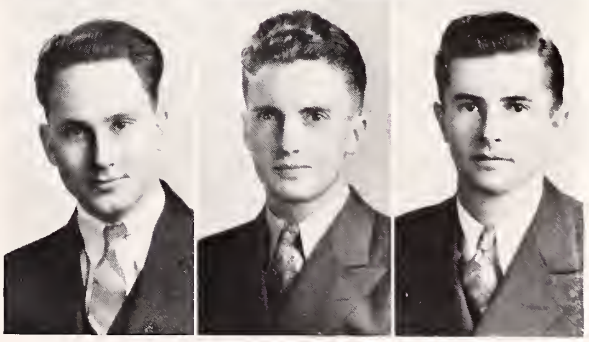

Publications Board was given complete control of the annual Homecoming Day program this year under the terms of a constitutional amendment adopted by the student body. The program was successfully published and the profit returned to the A.S.U.N. treasury. The board also sponsored a banquet for publications staff members.

MEN'S GLEE

Under the direction of Manager Darrell Cain and Conductor T. H. Post, the Men's Glee Club completed another noteworthy year in the long history of the organization.

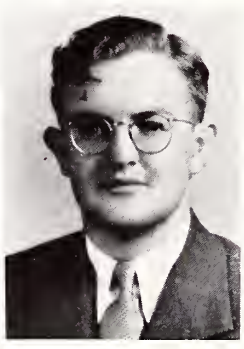

Many public appearances were made by the group, including the presentation of a number in the Wolves' Frolic, two concerts at the Twentieth Century Club, and a recital at the Fernley High School.

The Wolves' Frolic appearance was in the form of a college songs burlesque, and was featured by comic costumes of the singers and a German band act with the least harmony possible presented.

In the Century Club and the Fernley concerts, the Men's Glee Club was combined with the women's group to form the first University Choral society. Presented at this time was "Tannhauser", by Wagner, in conjunction with the University-Community Little Symphony orchestra.

Other features of the program were several a cappella selections and negro spirituals. The spring concert is an annual affair, the one this year being the eighth consecutive appearance during that season, and is generally presented the week before Easter.

A new Nevada song entitled "Nevada Spirit" was composed during the spring semester by Richard Solt, a member of the club.

DARRELL CAIN
President

WOMEN'S GLEE

Continuing as one of the oldest activities of the university, the Women's Glee Club this year did much to further its purpose of creating interest in music among Nevada women students.

Fall practice centered upon participation in the music department's concert at the Twentieth Century Club in December. A division of the women's glee, the Treble Trio, was an outstanding feature of the Wolves' Frolic. This group also provided entertainment for the Reno Rotary Club at one of the business men's meetings.

Second semester activities were combined with the Men's Glee Club to form the University Choral society. In conjunction with the University-Community Little Symphony the combined group gave another Century Club concert on April 10. This appearance was the eighth annual Spring Concert given by the music department, and was well received by a large audience. The featured presentation of the choral groups at this time was the "Chorale Fantasia", from Wagner's "Tannhauser".

An innovation at Nevada was a group of a cappella or unaccompanied songs practiced and successfully presented during this year.

Professor Theodore H. Post was in charge of the group and was assisted in several performances by his wife, Mrs. Dorothy B. Post.

U. OF N. BAND

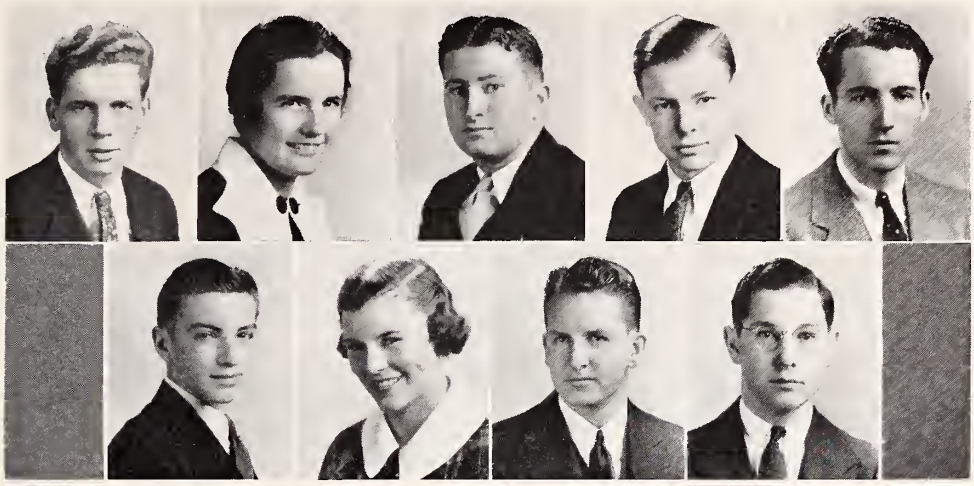

This year has been one of which band members may be proud. At the end of the spring semester last year, the band, with the aid of Kappa Kappa Psi, national band fraternity, sponsored a movement for more public recognition by presenting an award to each member fulfilling specified requirements. This year the group set up an individual organization, independent of Kappa Kappa Psi, with a student director at the head. This move took much of the burden from the faculty director and placed it in the hands of the students in the group.

Initial activities of the group last fall began with complete turnouts for all of the football games, rallies, and all civic and school parades. Smarting under accusations that members were not fit to belong in the band, a stunt which brought heartfelt applause from returning grads was presented at the annual Homecoming football game. After playing a stirring number the band marched and countermarched in front of the grandstand. On the first chords of "Hail to Our Sturdy Men" the ranks about faced, to reveal the words "Put Nevada First" on the backs of the players.

On November tenth the band traveled to College of Pacific to appear in that annual football game. The work of the second semester included appearances at all games, at the military inspection, and presentation of the annual spring concert.

DEBATE SQUAD

Nevada's debate squad this year completed one of the most versatile forensic programs in the history of the university. Most significant in the program of the debaters was the meeting with the Pacific Coast Forensic League at Walla Walla, Washington, in the latter part of March. The league is composed of all the important colleges on the Pacific coast. Against such competition, Nevada's two debaters, Bryce Rhodes and William Cashill, made an excellent record for their first appearance in the league. They advanced into the semi-finals but were defeated by the U.C.L.A. team, which was later declared winner of the debate division. They also took part in the extemporaneous after dinner speaking, and oratorical contests. The question debated this year was the one drawn by Pi Kappa Delta, national debating society, "Resolved: That the Nations Should Agree to Prevent the International Shipment of Arms and Munitions."

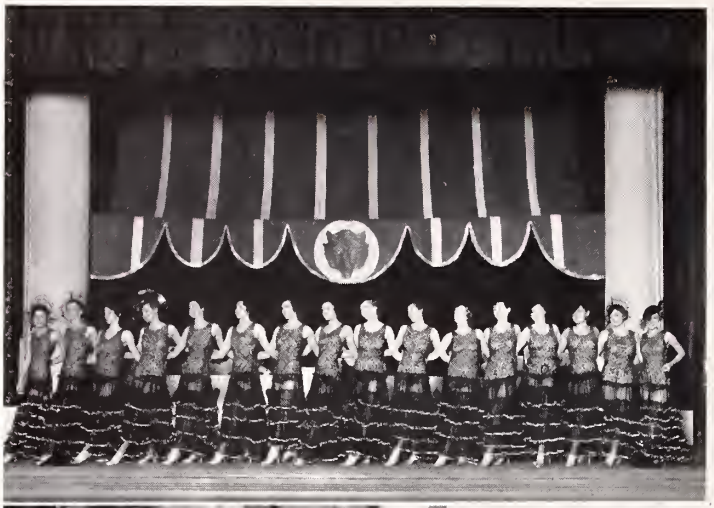

In the Nevada-Stanford contest held in Reno on January 30, the Nevada pair won by a 2 to 1 decision.

Enroute to Walla Walla the squad stopped at Stockton on the night of March 21 to debate with the College of Pacific team, being defeated by 2 to 1. Rhodes was voted the best speaker on the floor that evening.

Much of the credit for the success of debate on the campus goes to Robert Griffin, debate coach.

PHI KAPPA PHI

Membership in Phi Kappa Phi, national honorary scholastic society is considered the highest honor attainable at this university. Outstanding scholars are elected in the fall semester. Only two students were chosen at this time, Sarah Graves and Florine Frank, both young women having been very active in campus work. On Phi Kappa Phi day, held this year March 22, other students eligible for this honor are recognized. Those named at this time were Merle Atcheson, Ruby Bliss, William Johnstone, Blanche Keegan, Grace Semenza, Glenna Delle McQuerry, and Mrs. Ralph Wittenberg. Dr. Tully Knowles, president of College of Pacific and member of Phi Beta Kappa delivered the main address.

Dr. Knowles spoke to a crowded auditorium in the morning on the subject "The American Crisis in Education". He pointed out many thought-stimulating points, his address receiving the hearty approval of the students and faculty. This address was open to the public.

After the formal initiation that evening, Dr. Knowles spoke to the members of the group on the subject "The Psychology of Optimism", which was enjoyed by the seventy-five members attending. He was introduced by Dr. J. A. Fulton, president.

Other officers are Miss Sarah Lewis, vice-president; Verdi Fant, secretary; Dr. Merle Deming, treasurer.

CAP AND SCROLL

Cap and Scroll is an honorary women's upperclass society, whose purpose is to promote harmony and cooperation among women students, and to aid other organizations without attracting attention. It is composed of women who have shown themselves to be leaders on the campus in activities, scholarship, service, and citizenship. In addition an average grade of 2.3 must have been attained for the entire previous college year. New members are elected by unanimous consent of the active members.

An outstanding social activity of this organization during the past year was a card party held at Manzanita Hall in February.

Cap and Scroll was founded ten years ago by three women, Marcelline Kenny, George Money, and Rose Mitchell, who believed that women could serve their school in the same manner as did the men of Coffin and Keys. It was their desire that the ideal of service should rank as high as that of scholarship, thus making for breadth and leadership. The name of Athenedes, meaning Athena's children, was chosen, since the Greek goddess, Athena, stood for leadership and guidance. Dr. J. E. Church assisted in the initial formation of the group.

Officers for the past school year were Sarah Graves, president, Blanche Keegan, secretary-treasurer, Nell Lozano, marshal.

CHI DELTA PHI

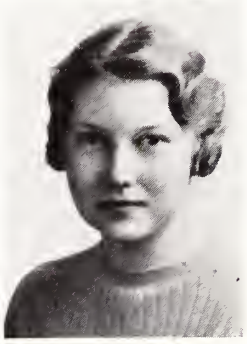

Chi Delta Phi is a national honorary English society composed of upperclass women who are majors in English, or have shown literary ability in the past. A high scholastic average is also required.

Among the projects undertaken by the group in the past year were the poetry contests for the women students on the campus and a similar contest for the students of the Reno and Sparks senior and junior high schools.

The contest on the campus was divided into two divisions, the upperclass women and the underclass women. A prize of honorary membership in the group was given to the winner in the first division and a five dollar prize was given to the winner in the lowerclass division. The winner of the senior high school division received a plaque with a poem of Shakespeare while the junior high school group received a plaque containing one of Longfellow's poems.

Lois Midgley, junior student, won the honorary membership in Chi Delta Phi, while Margaret Turano, freshman, won the five dollar prize offered to the winner in the underclass division. At the same time that Miss Midgley was initiated into the group, Mrs. D. C. McKay was also made a member.

During the past year Inez MacGillivray served as president, Ellen Ernst, vice-president, Glenna Delle McQuerry, secretary-treasurer.

NU ETA EPSILON

Nu Eta Epsilon recognizes outstanding achievement in scholarship by electing to membership those students in engineering whose scholastic standing is within the upper tenth of their class. Elections are held twice a year, initiation into the group being in the form of a banquet which is attended by a large number of instructors and graduates.

Elections for the fall semester were held the first week in November, when three new members were admitted to the group. Those seniors chosen at this time included Philip McGuire, Antonio Chavez, and William J. Johnstone.

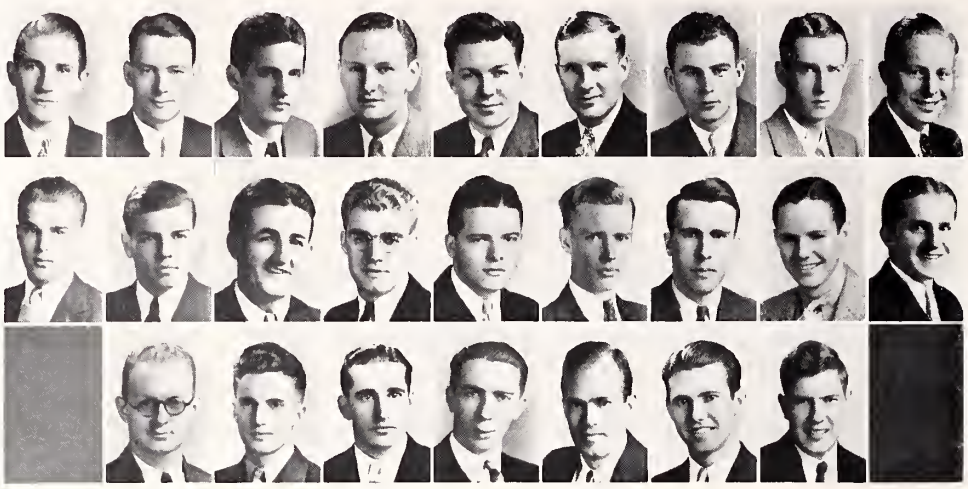

In March five men from the junior class were chosen for membership and the entire group of initiates honored at the annual banquet. These five men were Richard Greulich, George Francis, Harold Westfall, Irvin Wanke, and Paul Bohlke.

The speaker of the evening was Miles N. Pike, assistant United States district attorney and former president of the Alumni association of the University of Nevada. Pike discussed proposed legislation requiring the licensing of consulting engineers.

Officers for the coming year were elected at this same meeting when Richard Greulich was chosen president and Paul Bohlke vice-president. Professor F. L. Bixby was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

BLUE KEY

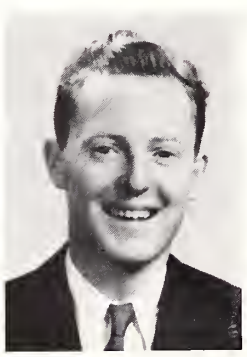

Blue Key, national service fraternity, began the year's work on the second day of the school year with the semi-annual "Get-together" dance. Over five hundred students attended to establish a new record. One hundred dollars was cleared on the dance, of which eighty per cent went to the A.S.U.N.

Another activity of the group is the sponsoring of the Wolves' Frolic during the Homecoming celebration. Blue Key advertised the show and sold the tickets.

Blue Key sponsors all of the social hours held in the gymnasium on Wednesday nights. This year a new plan was inaugurated to get a larger group of students to attend by offering prizes to the fraternity and sorority that had the largest number of members in attendance. A prize was given weekly in the first semester, while a loving cup was the prize in the second semester to the sorority and fraternity which had the largest attendance throughout the semester.

A "Campus Night" was sponsored at a local theatre in conjunction with Campus Players, and presented in March. This activity returned forty dollars to the A.S.U.N. treasury.

The officers in the past year were Edwin Martinez, president, Elmer Hawkins, vice-president, Herbert Peck and Charles Nichols, secretaries, and Robert Creps, treasurer.

SCABBARD AND BLADE

Although the local chapter of Scabbard and Blade is one of the smallest in the colleges of the United States, the members have been commended frequently for the active interest shown in the work of the military department and the university.

Complete charge of the organization and presentation of the annual Homecoming Day parade was placed in the hands of the chapter, while the entire military corps appeared in the Armistice and Nevada Day parades under the leadership of Scabbard and Blade.

Memories of World War days, when recruits were quartered on the university campus, were revived during the informal initiation of new members. Initiates were required to mount regular sentry duty and to maintain an outpost, using the barracks as a sentry tent. A breakfast was served in the dining hall the following morning, with formal initiation that evening.

During the evening of February 23 the annual Military Ball was given by the society, with Miss Arlene Boerlin officiating as honorary major. Insignia bars were presented to the new members of the society by Miss Boerlin, completing the last step in their acceptance as members.

Perry B. Priest, cadet captain of Company B and treasurer of the local chapter, attended the annual convention in Ohio during the latter part of November.

Y. W. C. A. CABINET

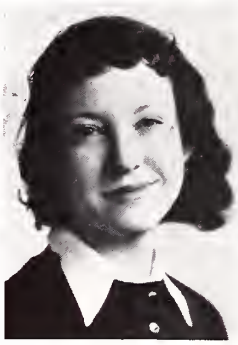

The Young Women's Christian Association was one of the first organizations established upon the campus, having been installed in 1890 by the University of California chapter. The association has departments to include any type of college woman. The heads of these departments are united into a cabinet which formulates association plans and supervises the group projects.

Numerous projects were undertaken by the society this year, including the second-hand bookshop, the candy booth, and an hour of instruction at the local Indian reservation for Indian children.

The ninth annual Easter Pageant was presented on Sunday, April 14, in front of the Mackay School of Mines. An allegory in five parts, the Pageant portrayed the story of Sir Galahad and the Holy Grail. The combined Glee Clubs and the University-Community orchestra assisted the Y.W.C.A. in the production.

During the Christmas vacation, a delegation was sent to the joint conference of the Y.W.C.A. and Y.M.C.A. at Asilomar, California. This delegation included Betty Howell, Mary Corecco and Alma Schiappacasse.

Many lecturers were sponsored by the group, including Miss Muriel Lester, England's third greatest woman and settlement worker, Claude Neet, Dr. R. C. Thompson, Peter Frandsen, Colonel Robert Brambila, Alden Plumley, and Dr. Charles Hicks.

OMEGA MU IOTA

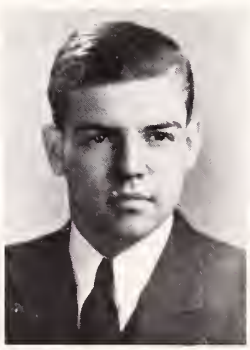

The local pre-medical organization, Omega Mu Iota, has just completed the most progressive chapter in its history. Probably the most valuable activity that the group undertook during the last year was the presentation of a Medical Dictionary to the pre-medical department and to Dr. Frandsen.

The organization sponsored an exhibit during the Homecoming Celebration which was well received by the "grads." It included many abnormals in development, as well as exhibits in bacteriological work.

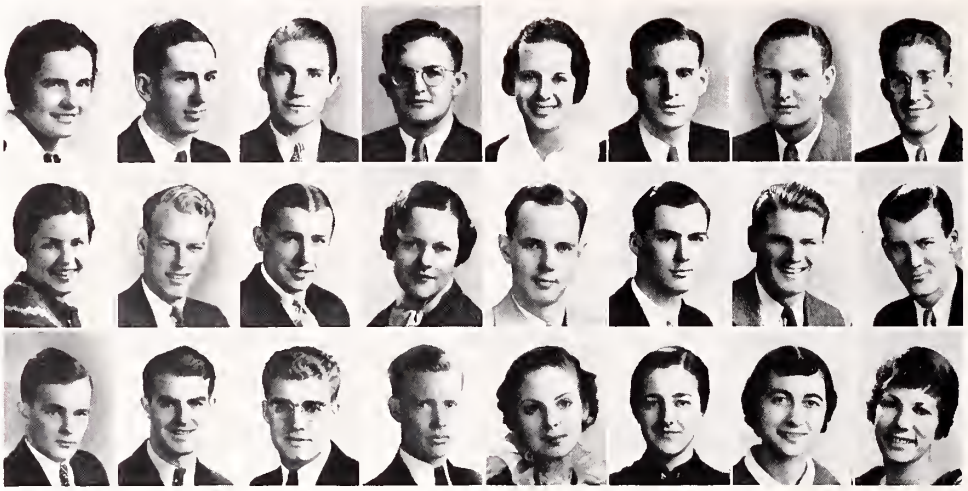

An inspection of the Nevada state mental hospital taken through the courtesy of Dr. G. R. Smith, director, proved to be one of the most interesting projects undertaken by the group. A standing invitation to attend their monthly meetings was extended to the club by the members of the Washoe County Medical Association.

Several educational lectures were delivered before the club by Doctors Lawrence Parsons, J. W. Gerow, J. P. Tuttle, H. F. Cafferata, Louis Lombardi, Vernon Cantlon, and Alvin Jacobs, well-known Reno physicians and former medical students. These lectures proved to be of great value to the students in their studies.

The officers for the first semester were Max Kepl, president; Lynn Gerow, vice-president; Helen Records, secretary-treasurer. Virginia Ravenscroft served as secretary-treasurer for the second semester.

CAMPUS PLAYERS

Campus Players completed it fourteenth year at the University of Nevada with the annual picnic at Lake Tahoe in May. A majority of the members attended the outing.

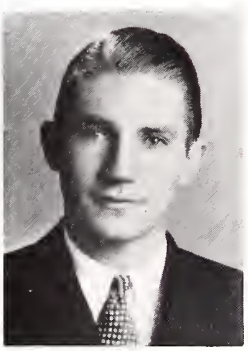

Campus Players is composed of students who have taken a leading role in some major campus production, or who accomplished the required work on the technical staff of the University Play Productions.

A number of accomplishments are to be credited to the members of the organization. Predominate among these, of course, has been the active interest taken in the plays presented during the univerity year, with the majority of lead roles being assigned to active members.

Acts were presented in the Wolves' Frolic last fall, when Helen Lewis, Helene Per Lee, Carl Dodge, and Raymond Frohlich appeared in "Desire Under the Maples".

A "bargain mis-fit" dance was also sponsored during the latter part of the semester, while an act was presented in "Campus Night", short vaudeville show presented at a local theatre.

Exceptional ability in dramatics is recognized by election to Masque and Dagger, national honorary dramatic society. Among those who have earned this honor in the past year are Herbert Peck, Grace Semenza, Tom Morris, Carl Dodge, and Raymond Frohlich.

KAPPA KAPPA PSI

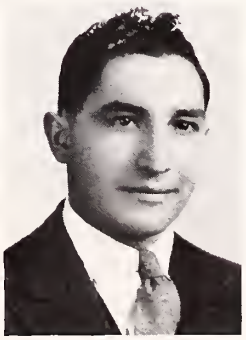

Keeping band activities moving is the function of Kappa Kappa Psi, national honorary band fraternity, which continued its beneficial work this year.

The most important single activity that the group undertook was arranging the trip to Stockton for the band on November 10 for the annual Nevada-College of Pacific football game. On the field that night the band serenaded the rooting sections of the two schools, with Ross Hall acting as drum major.

This group introduced a movement in the band for the organization of the latter group, and succeeded in drawing up a very worthwhile constitution and obtaining its approval. This action removed much of the responsibility from the shoulders of the director, and put it in the hands of a student director and manager.

Near the close of the last school year the group introduced an amendment to the A.S.U.N constitution providing for an award to five-semester bandmen whom the director deems worthy of such an honor. This was passed by the student body by a large majority. The award is in the form of a white chenille lyre on a blue background with a blue block N superimposed on it. Seven men have received this award in the last year.

Officers this year were Kistler Rivers, president; Tom Morris, vice-president; Morgan Mills, secretary and Professor Theodore H. Post, permanent treasurer.

GOTHIC "N" SOCIETY

Membership in Gothic "N" is one of the highest honors that a woman can receive on the campus. Only upperclass women and sophomores who have earned three proficiencies and one varsity rating or the equivalent in athletics are eligible for this honor. Candidates must also be active in the Women's Athletic Association, show good sportsmanship, and be outstanding in other campus activities.

The organization is limited to twelve active members and, through tradition, the bidding of new members occurs annually at the Mackay Day luncheon. Those receiving bids this year were, Ruthe Goldsworthy, Georgianna Harriman, Sarah Graves, Orpha Morgan, Dorothy Nason, and Dorothy Roseberry.

In conjunction with W.A.A., senior women who have satisfied all requirements of membership in Gothic "N" and are particularly outstanding in athletics and campus activities are presented with a Nevada blanket at the luncheon. Those receiving this award were Dorothy Gordon, Elizabeth Frey, Nell Lozano, Helene Stark, and Blanche Keegan.

Elections of officers are made at the end of each year. The officers of Gothic "N" for last year were Elizabeth Frey, president; Helene Stark, vice-president, and Dorothy Gordon, secretary-treasurer. Mrs. Mae Simas is faculty advisor to the group.

NEVADA SAGENS

Comparable to the men's group of "Sagers" these women are organized under the name of "Sagens", for the purpose of stimulating student body spirit and acting in a service capacity.

Under the capable leadership of Sallie Fagan, the group functioned as a unit, sponsoring their annual dance as well as taking their share of the responsibilities of the Sagens' and Sagers' dance. Both affairs were well attended, showing the efficiency with which their work is done, not only in social gatherings but in ticket sales for football and basketball games, active participation in rallies, and this year in taking charge of the Red Cross drive on the university campus.

Another important function of the Sagens is the increasing of pep at games and rallies by being present at these events and doing their share of rooting.

Membership in Sagens is limited to thirteen women, there being two representatives from each sorority. New members are elected to fill vacancies left by graduating seniors. This year Annette Priest, Pi Beta Phi, Evamae Beemer, Delta Delta Delta, and Betty Simpson, Gamma Phi Beta were elected.

The organization as a whole has been instrumental in fostering the growth of loyalty to the university, and in the development of widespread interest in the various activities of the entire campus.

PRESS CLUB

Continuing as one of the most active of campus organizations despite the relatively short period which has elapsed since it was formed, the Press Club has accomplished a large amount of constructive work during the year under the leadership of President Merle Atcheson.

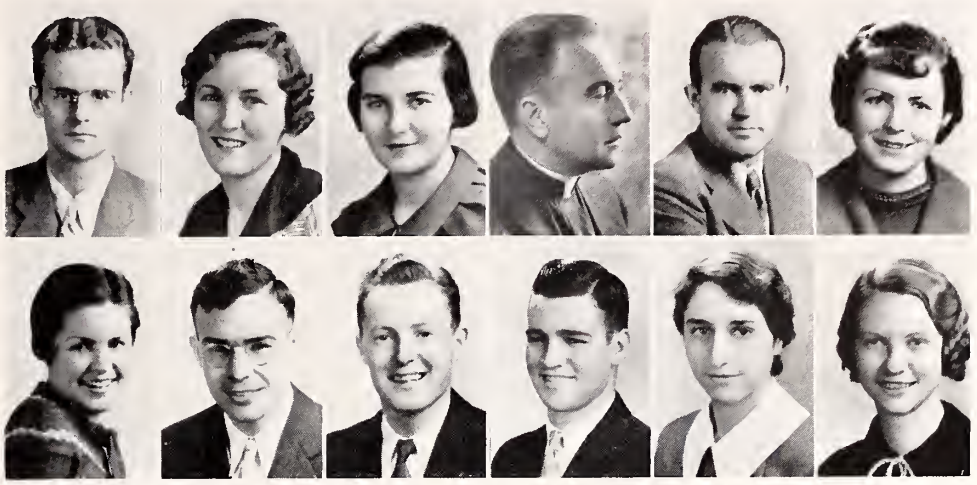

By far the largest undertaking of the club was the sponsoring of the convention of editors and managers of high school publications during April. Active management of this convention was placed in the hands of Miss Lois Midgley, who filled the two-day meeting with a program designed to aid the delegates in their high school work. Talks on newspaper and yearbook problems by the heads of the university publications, round-table discussions, and dinners filled the week end.

MERLE ATCHESON
President

The Press Club gained considerable recognition in coast and eastern papers last spring when a plaque was placed on the front of the building occupied by Mark Twain during the Comstock Lode days. This plaque was dedicated to Twain and marks the place where he received his early literary training as a member of the Territorial Enterprise staff.

Other activities of the club included the presentation of the annual "Press Club Ruckus" before a filled house, sponsoring the rejuvenated Mardi Gras, and the stimulation of interest in literary work.

First Row: Carville, Caton, Carmody, Rev. Empey, Foley, F. Graf. Second Row: M. Graf, Greulich, Martinez, Prunty, Spina, Walsh.

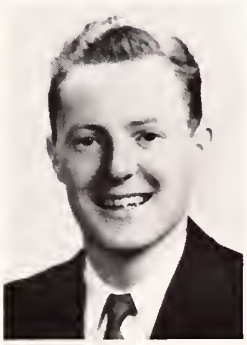

NEWMAN CLUB

The Catholic students on the campus formed the Newman Club several years ago as a non-secret organization with the purpose of promoting social contacts among the students of that sect on the Nevada campus.

During the spring semester the annual banquet was given in honor of Bishop Thomas Gorman, who had just returned from a trip to Rome.

BLOCK "N" SOCIETY

Men who have fulfilled all requirements necessary to receive a letter in a major sport on the campus are eligible for admission to Block "N" Society.

The activities of this society include supervision of the whitewashing of the "N" on the slopes of Peavine, officiating at the track meets, and proposing, as a group, changes to the A.S.U.N. constitution.

The bi-annual painting of the "N" takes place each semester during the week end before Homecoming Day and Mackay Day. The frosh men are required to work on the painting, with the women supplying refreshments.

A resolution was passed in a meeting of the Block "N" Society to lower the requirements necessary for a letter in football. This was passed by the group and presented to the student body in the form of an amendment to the A.S.U.N. constitution. It was passed and has been put into effect. It provides that a man must play at least 25 per cent of the scheduled time of play instead of 30 per cent, as was required previously.

The annual State High School Track Meet is under the direction of Block "N" and will be held in Reno on May 11. It will be in charge of John Benson, chairman, Floyd Smalley, and George Hadlen.

Tom Cashill was president of the society this year, Clayton Phillips was vice-president, and Harvey Hill served as secretary and treasurer.

NEVADA SAGERS

Our own local underclass pep group, the Sagers, was rejuvenated last semester. The membership was limited to thirty men, only those who are actively interested in constructive campus work being chosen. A distinctive blue sweater and insignia of the organization made its first appearance this year. Membership of Blue Key, national honorary service fraternity, is usually chosen from the Sagers.

This group is extremely active in performing odd jobs on the campus. Such work as cleaning the gymnasium after the social hours and other dances sponsored by Blue Key is part of the routine of a Sager member.

This group as a unit met the athletic teams of other universities as they arrived in Reno, escorting them to their hotels. The Sagers also provided transportation from their hotels to Mackay Field and back for visiting players. The blue-shirted group was seen at every train leaving Reno on which was a Nevada team. Rousing Sager cheers greeted the Nevada varsity as they returned from trips.

During the Homecoming celebration, the group had charge of the building and lighting of the bonfire.

Socially, the Sagers are quite active, giving the "Bowery Brawl" in conjunction with the Sagens.

The officers this year were Forrest Bibb, president, John Benson, vice-president, and Brooks Park treasurer.

SUNDOWNERS

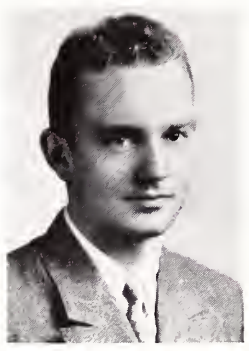

One day each semester a group of "gentlemen of the road" take the campus by storm and disappear just as mysteriously at the end of the same day. This really is nothing alarming but merely the initiation ceremonies of the Sundowners of the Sagebrush, a local honorary goodfellowship fraternity.

The purpose of the Sundowners is to promote harmony and good feeling among the male students on the campus. It is by far the most informal group on the "Hill".

The activities of the year include several steak fries and weenie roasts in the near-by foothills.

Those elected in the fall semester to membership were John Benson, William Blackledge, Morgan Mills, Robert Maher, Frank Showalter, Richard Sauer, William Cashill, Raymond Frohlich, and Douglas McDow.

The organization was founded in October, 1921, and has served in the capacity of a goodfellowship society since its inception. As there are no special requirements for membership, the members are chosen from men students at large, with special efforts being made to include members of different social groups. It is a very distinctive group as there are few, if any, organizations similar to it in the colleges of the United States.

FINE ARTS GROUP

The Fine Arts Group was started on the Nevada campus in 1933 and has held a prominent place in the field of art in Reno since its organization. Work of local and nationally famous artists has been exhibited in the Library seminar during the year. The group raises funds for these exhibits by means of teas, matinee dances, and grants from the A.S.U.N.

An exhibit of the work done by the students of the California School of Arts and Crafts was presented to the students and townspeople as one project.

During the Homecoming Day celebration, members presented an exhibit by Robert Cole Caples, Reno artist, as their offering. In this group of pictures were included Caples' charcoal studies of Indian heads and his famous "Chessmen at Midnight".

In the middle of October an exhibit featuring representative etchings of Munich artists was displayed.

Charles Cutts, local art collector, loaned for exhibit a series of etchings, including dry plate and etched plate pieces, by a young Austrian artist.

Early in the second semester an exhibit of water colors by the famous Japanese artist Hugo Sugimoto, was shown.

A series of exhibits by local artists was also presented in the second semester. These included work done by University students enrolled in the Art Department.

NORMAL CLUB

The Normal Club consists of those students pursuing the two-year teaching course of the department of education. Its purpose is to further an understanding of the principles of teaching.

Meetings of the Club are held twice each month, with social and business meetings alternating. The group this year functioned under a revised constitution, which among other changes, provided for a new pin signifying membership in the organization. Attendance of meetings is stressed, for many subjects of educational interest are included in the program of each meeting.

The club sponsored many activities this year. One-act plays were read during social meetings. These plays were donated by Mrs. John W. Hall, wife of the Dean of the School of Education. During the school year several talks were given by prominent speakers who dealt with varied phases of the teaching profession. An interesting talk was delivered by Mrs. O. G. Purdy, vice-president of the Nevada Federation of Women's Clubs. Professor H. N. Brown of the education department spoke of his personal experiences with problems of rural school teaching. Parties and dinners were arranged for the members at different times during the school year.

The officers of the group this year were Margaret Bagley, president; Edith Dutton, vice-president; Christine Iverson, secretary, and Ina Sharpe, treasurer.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

The Mackay Day Luncheon this year was one of the finest that has been given in many years, due to the efforts of the Home Economics Club. A small profit made by the group on the luncheon will be used to buy equipment for next year.

This is just one of the many projects that the group has undertaken in the past year. It had charge of printing all the signs used to advertise the various exhibits in the Homecoming Day celebration, as well as entering a float in the annual parade.

Communications were received and sent by the group to other home economic schools throughout the country. New ideas and plans were thus exchanged.

In the latter part of April the annual banquet was served to the members. At this time the prizes of the year were awarded and officers for the coming year were elected.

A prize is given annually at the first of the school year by Miss Sarah Lewis, head of the department, to the freshman and sophomore member having the highest scholastic average. Genevieve Hansen and Margaret Gorman received the awards this year.

Officers directing this year's activities included Kathryn Nichols, president; Elizabeth Frey, vice-president; Margaret Fuetsch, secretary and vice-president; Neca Jone, treasurer.

KATHRYN NICHOLS
President

Sitting: Primeaux, Belmonte, Mann, Albright, Lohse. Standing: Walker, Cain, Dumont, Turner, Kennedy, Steinheimer.

AGGIE CLUB

The Aggie Club, an organization composed of the students enrolled in the College of Agriculture, has just completed another active year under the leadership of Paul Walker, junior student enrolled in that school.

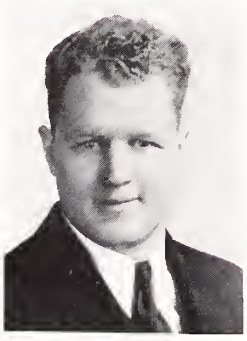

The program of the year included the annual Homecoming Day dance, of which the group had charge, trips throughout Western Nevada for stock judging experience, a trip to Ogden made by the stock judging team and meetings once a month during which business of the group was discussed and motion pictures shown.

The team of stock judgers chosen by the group to represent the University at the annual Ogden Livestock Show during the first part of January included Don Small, George Kitchen, and Marvin Turner. As this was not a complete team, the members were not able to enter the competition, but received much valuable information which they passed on to the group.

Another project sponsored by the organization was the annual meeting of the Future Farmers of America which was held April 8, 9, and 10 on the campus. Delegates were sent from all parts of the state.

Several motion pictures on agricultural subjects were secured by the group and shown at their meetings.

Other officers this year were Clyde Jantze, vice-president; Marvin Turner, secretary-treasurer.

PAUL WALKER
President

Seated: Richards, Waltenspiel, Finn, Morgan, Slavin, Fuetsch, Hansen, Jensen. Standing: Beck, Shone, Varnum, Larkin, Winters, Deming, English, Dean, Hill, Lough, Dukes, Lang, Stoddard, Ruedy, Sears.

CHEMISTRY CLUB

The impossible becomes the possible; the unbelievable, the believable! Fire issues from water, and water from fire. Colorful pictures are painted in thin air. A demonstration of the mysterious "Death Ray," merciless agent of death and destruction, shows the ease with which life may be snuffed out.

Such were the promises of the Chemistry Club on the morning of Homecoming Day, and they were fulfilled, to the astonishment of the large crowd that was on hand for the annual demonstration.

The club is an organization to bring students and faculty members interested in chemistry together, and to present new phases which are continually developing.

Exceptional ability in chemistry is recognized by the local honorary, Sigma Sigma Kappa, with an election at the end of each school year. Those who were elected this year are Leland Hill and Clyde Beck.

Lectures are given at the regular meetings of the group by faculty members and by upperclass students who are enrolled in the seminar course offered by the chemistry department. Motion pictures are also shown. This year the first pioneer educational movie-talkie film was shown to the group at one of the monthly meetings.

Dino Barengo was president of the club during the past year; Melvin Ruedy, vice-president; Betty Bowman, secretary; Joseph Winter, treasurer.

DINO BARENGO
President

CRUCIBLE CLUB

Mining engineers of the University of Nevada formed the Crucible Club a number of years ago, organizing it as a local chapter of the American Institute of Mining Engineers. It was designed to furnish social and extra-curricular activities for the mining students, and to bring them into closer contact with practical mining problems.

Many trips were taken by the group to inspect mines near Reno, and a number of talks were given by prominent men in the mining field. An inspection trip was taken by twenty-four members of the group to the Como Consolidated Mines near Dayton, Nevada during the first part of the fall semester.

Speakers of the year were E. J. Clauson, noted engineer of Howe Sound Corporation, a mining company with branches in Canada and Mexico, who spoke on his experiences in mining work. Professor John A. Fulton spoke on "Five and One-half Years of Experience in Africa." Dr. Frederick W. Lee, chief engineer for the geophysical branch of the U. S. Bureau of Mines, addressed the group on modern practices in geophysical studies. W. J. Loring, general manager of the Arizona-Comstock mine in Virginia City, and manager of the Malone, Carson Hill and Utica mines in the mother lode district of California, also related his experiences in connection with mining.

C. McCULLOCH
President

Seated: Prof. Boardman, Bawden, Ackerman, Sauer, Smith, Guisti, Leone, Prof. Bixby. Standing: Johnson, Zadow, Durbrow, McIntyre, Littlefield, Rhodes, Nelson, Johnstone, Mastroianni.

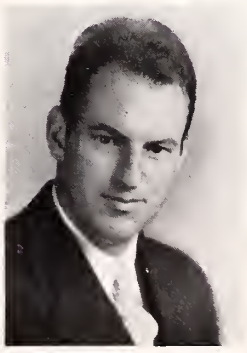

CIVIL ENGINEERS

The civil engineering society at the University of Nevada is a student branch of the American Society of Civil Engineers. This organization serves to keep its members in direct contact with other branches of the society throughout the United States. This contact with like societies in other American colleges makes possible a better understanding of the problems which confront a civil engineering graduate in the many phases of his work. During the monthly meetings the business of the local and national organizations are discussed and a prominent speaker usually addresses the group on some subject pertinent to civil engineering.

Thomas R. King '17, engineer for the local upstream storage project, was one of the speakers. He discussed upstream storage. Fred Herz spoke to the group about his experiences on the expedition to Greenland which was sponsored by the University of Michigan in 1927 and illustrated his talk with pictures he took as photographer for the expedition.

Mr. Fred Scobey, senior irrigational engineer for the Bureau of Agricultural Engineering, spoke at the January meeting, discussing the measurement of the flow of water. Scobey is an authority in this field.

Henry Smith was the president during the past year; Irvin Wanke, vice-president; John Franklin, secretary and treasurer.

ELECTRICAL ENGINEERS

Founded as a branch of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, the University of Nevada Electrical Engineering Society this year heard several lectures by men prominent in this branch of science.

Lectures scheduled by the society during the year included appearances by Professor R. W. Sorenson, vice-president of the national A.I.E.E.; W. C. Smith of the Pacific coast branch of the General Electric Company; Frank O. Broili, Reno merchant and engineer; Paul Levenhaum, electrical engineer with the Southern Pacific Company; P. B. Garrett of the Westinghouse Electric Manufacturing Company.

Following an annual custom, the society sponsored an exhibit of electrical equipment during Homecoming celebration which was enjoyed by all those visiting the campus. Many interesting experiments were shown during these two days.

The objects of the society are to develop the standards of the profession and the advancement of the theory and practice of electrical engineering. Meetings of the group are held once a month. Membership is composed of students in the college of engineering who intend to major in electrical engineering. Until this year eligibility was restricted to upper classmen, but by a recent vote of the organization freshmen and sophomores are now allowed to become members.

DONALD ODELL
President

Kneeling: Fancher, Amens, Patinga, Breen, Walker, Curry, Williams, Butler, Kwan. Standing: Coalwell, Wheeler, Caples, Ryan, Alter, Engblom, Hill, Smith, Vuich, Crawford, Cheal, Parmenter, Morris.

MECHANICAL ENGINEERS

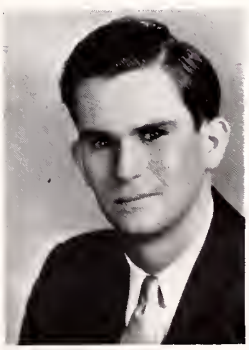

Three members of the local chapter of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers recently returned from the convention held in Berkeley in the early part of April, where two of the delegates delivered papers before the convention. Those who spoke were William Cheal on "Mechanical Emulsifiers", and James Crawford on "A Horizontal Cam Engine". Others attending the convention were Charles Allen, Edward Parmenter, and Dean Sibley.

This year a reorganization of the society was made, and the local group became a student branch of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers. It was formerly an independent organization.

Among the speakers appearing before the society during the year were Ernest Hartford, secretary of the A.S.M.E., who spoke on the organization of the society and was the installing officer at the initiation; George E. Franklin, president of the Franklin Aircraft Engine Company. P. E. Siggers, local patent attorney, also spoke on "Patents and Securing a Patent."

An election of officers for the coming year was held in the latter part of March. Jack Tedford was elected chairman of the society, Leland Hazeltine, vice-chairman, and Charles Allen, secretary-treasurer.

William Cheal was the chairman of the local branch while James Crawford served as secretary-treasurer.

CECIL CHEAL
Chairman

Plath, Sheahan, Odell.

ASSOCIATED ENGINEERS

The Associated Engineers is a society composed of students from each of the four branches of the engineering college, including civil, electrical, mining, and mechanical engineering. The purpose of the organization is to further the development of engineering enterprises on this campus and to unite the students of the department into a strong working body.

The organization undertakes numerous projects in engineering, and lectures are given by graduates of that department who are now very prominent in their field. George Malone, Nevada state engineer, spoke on "Engineering Problems of Nevada". During this lecture pictures of Boulder Dam were shown. Ernest Hartford, secretary of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, addressed the engineers at a banquet in his honor on the installation of the branch of the Society of Mechanical Engineers on the Nevada Campus. Another interesting talk was given by Dr. H. D. Tyron of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, in which he reviewed some of his own personal experiences. Tasker L. Oddie and Alfred M. Smith, state officials, explained to the group how loans are made by the government to engineering projects. Fred C. Scobey, senior irrigational engineer for the Bureau of Agricultural Engineering, spoke at the first meeting of the second semester on the measurement of water flow. R. W. Sorenson spoke to the society on the Tennessee Valley Authority in the latter part of January.

During the Homecoming Day Celebration the engineers feted their visitors in the various departments. The four engineering groups during the course of the celebration presented several interesting exhibits showing different phases of engineering progress.

A nation torn asunder . . . to bind solidly forever Nevada tore from her depths, herself—Silver. The drums of victory bring joy and tears. Wounds heal, and a reunited people go on to a greater destiny.

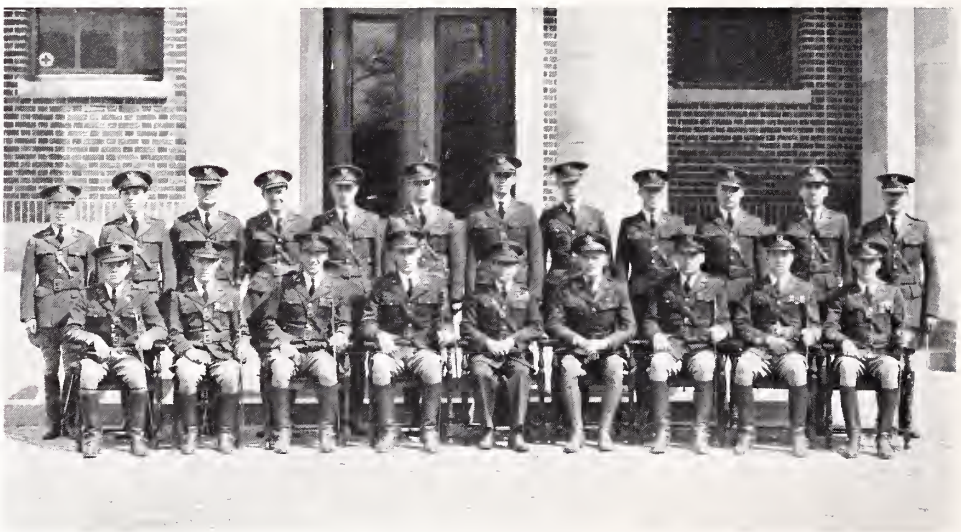

COL. R. M. BRAMBILA
Professor Military Science and Tactics

M I L I T A R Y

With the enlargement of the advanced military class from seventeen to twenty this semester, the Nevada R.O.T.C. has the largest enrollment of officers in its history. Eligibility for membership in the advanced class is based on high scholastic standing in the two-year basic course and in passing an exacting physical examination. The officers supervise drill, each being assigned as instructor of a squad.

Every advanced-course student is a member of Scabbard and Blade, the juniors having received their insignias this spring at the Military Ball. Officers having charge of drill preparatory to inspection were selected by the military department and approved by President Clark. Cadet Major Wendell Duplantis was designated as battalion commander and was in charge of the entire Nevada corps. Other officers of the battalion headquarters were Cadet Captains Harvey Hill, William Kottke, and Cadet Sergeant Carr.

CADET OFFICERS
Seated: Chavez, Odell, Gibson, Hansen, Colonel Brambila, Captain Isbell, Kottke, Priest, Duplantis.
Standing: Thompson, Wanke, Cockrell, Greulich, Bowrin, Prunty, Cummings, Nichols, Hazeltine, Ball, Hurley, Morris.

Cadet Major

For the past two years the Reserve Officers Training Corps has been given the highest rating possible, that of "Excellent", within the Ninth Corps Area by an authorized inspecting officer. Captain Henry W. Isbell was added to the personnel of the department this year, being transferred from Vancouver Barracks, Washington. He replaces Lieutenant Herbert Wilcox. Colonel Robert M. Brambila conducts the department as professor of military science and tactics, while Sergeant Grant Hustis acts as rifle team coach and attends administrative details.

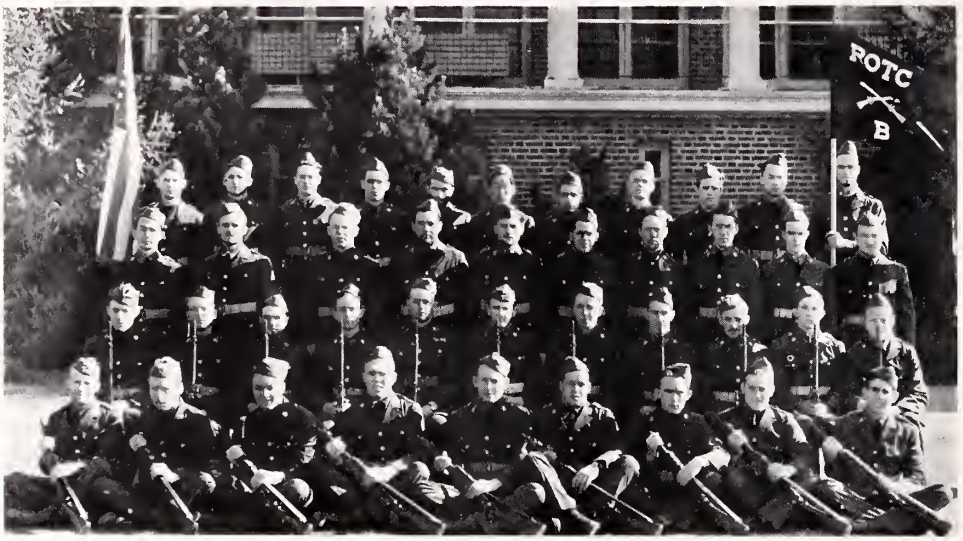

Enrollment in the two basic classes this year has exceeded any class of the previous five years. New uniforms of a khaki serge were supplied by the ordnance department of the United States Army.

The corps added a smart military touch to the Homecoming Day parade last fall, and participated also in the Admission Day and Armistice Day parades.

COMPANY A

COMPANY B

Enrollment in the basic corps of the military department this year is the largest since 1929. This additional registration necessitated the formation of a third campany and the acquisition of new uniforms and other equipment. With the increase in the size of the unit, intercompany competition for proficiency in drill became keen in anticipation of the annual spring inspection.

As an incentive to the development of soldierly qualities and to further military excellence, a scholarship of fifty dollars is offered each year by the General O. M. Mitchell Relief Corps to a sophomore member of the basic course who leads his class in scholarship and possesses marked qualities of leadership. In addition Scabbard and Blade offers a gold medal to the best individual soldier in the basic course. The cadet who receives this medal must have the highest grade of a group of nine men, three from each company, who are not eliminated in the individual competition. Advanced class officers are responsible for the drill and discipline within the corps. These men must conform to government regulations and attend a military camp for six weeks during the summer months. This camp is conducted for the purpose of giving the advanced officers practical experience in organization and administration of military units.

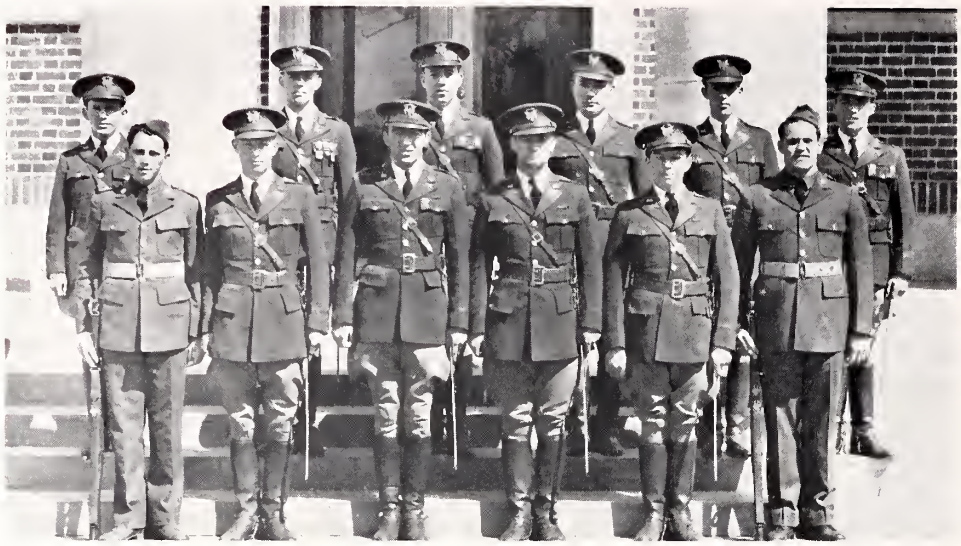

COMPANY C

The camp is being held this summer in Monterey commencing June twentieth. Ten juniors and three seniors are planning to attend, their expenses being defrayed by the government. Intensive drill is scheduled for these six weeks, including actual marksmanship practice with the various infantry weapons. At the end of the camp period, those officers who qualified for marksmanship ratings are presented with regulation army medals. The present seniors of the Nevada R.O.T.C. last summer missed winning the trophy "Doughboy of the West" by only a few points.

Company officers were announced this spring by Colonel Robert M. Brambila, professor of military science and tactics. Officers of Company A were Robert Hansen, commanding officer; Donald Odell, second-in-command; Thomas Prunty, first sergeant; Bert Cummings, right guide; Charles Nichols, left guide; Joseph Littlefield, guidon bearer. Officers of Company B were Perry Priest, commanding officer; Alson Gibson, second-in-command; Thomas Morris, first sergeant; William Cockrell, right guide; Ralph Ball, left guide; Wesley Hurley, guidon bearer. Officers of Company C included James Thompson, commanding officer; Antonio Chavez, second-in-command; Walter Bowrin, first sergeant; Richard Greulich, right guide; Leland Hazeltine, left guide.

RIFLE TEAM

Under the sponsorship of the military department, the University of Nevada rifle team engages in matches every year with colleges and universities throughout the United States. The team opened the season late in February this year participating in the Ninth Corps Area intercollegiate match. Fifteen men composed the team, the ten highest receiving Circle "N's" on Mackay Day from the associated students. The high ten included Wendell Duplantis, James Thompson, Walter Bowrin, Ralph Ball, Donald Odell, Leland Hazeltine, Alson Gibson, Richard Sauer, Ben Morehouse, and Harvey Hill.

During the season Nevada competed with fourteen colleges in intercollegiate matches. This year's team was composed of many new men who show promise of developing a good team in the future.

Nevada concluded the current season by firing in the annual Hearst Trophy Match in competition with all the teams in the United States. Medals were awarded to the marksmen on the basis of the scores made in this match.

These medals were awarded by Scabbard and Blade to Wendell Duplantis, Ralph Ball and Walter Bowrin at the final review of the year following the annual inspection. Miss Boerlin made the formal awards, being escorted during the ceremony by Colonel Brambila.

PAN-HELLENIC COUNCIL

The six national sororities on the Nevada campus are governed by the Pan-Hellenic Council, composed of two delegates from each house. This council has full control of all matters pertaining to rushing and pledging. As a member of the national organization, the local council has the authority to penalize sororities which break the rules stated in the Pan-Hellenic rushing regulations. This council appoints a lawyer, and it is through her that various co-ed preferences are made known. Mrs. Scott Harrington served in this office during the fall semester but because of illness was unable to officiate in that capacity during the spring semester. Miss Bemis, the matron of Manzanita Hall, was appointed to fill the vacancy.

The achievement of high scholarship is a major aim of the council. A silver loving-cup is presented each semester to the sorority ranking highest in scholarship. This trophy becomes the permanent possession of any sorority winning it three consecutive times.

Among the social functions of this organization are the Pan-Hellenic tea which is given in honor of the freshmen women in order that they may become better acquainted with the older women students, and the annual reverse dance which is held as a "good will" dance.

This year the officers included Grace Semenza, president, and Dorothy Nason, secretary-treasurer.

INTER-FRATERNITY COUNCIL

Instituted with the view of furthering better understanding among the men's social fraternities on the Nevada campus, the Interfraternity Council this year continued the excellent service that it has rendered in the past. Members of the group include one representative from each of the eight national fraternities and one delegate from Lincoln Hall Association.

An interfraternity dance is usually held in the fall semester for the promotion of general campus good fellowship. The council is active in the furthering of athletics among the fraternities, and awards trophies to the winners in the various sports.

The interfraternity council at the end of the spring semester is the host of the fraternities at a "bean feed" at which the revolving sports trophy is awarded, as well as the trophies to the individual winners. This year several of the trophies were presented to the winners during a regular student body meeting. The tennis singles cup was won by Sigma Nu, doubles by Alpha Tau Omega; handball singles by Lambda Chi Alpha, doubles by Sigma Phi Sigma; cross-country race by Alpha Tau Omega; basketball by Sigma Nu; volleyball by Sigma Nu; horshoe singles by Lincoln Hall, and doubles by Alpha Tau Omega.

President for the fall term was Elmer Hawkins, while Forrest Rhodes served in the spring.

THE INDEPENDENTS

Composed of students who were not members of fraternities or sororities, the Independents organized two years ago when discussions on the proposed A.S.U.N. constitution were being held. An active part was taken in the debate which centered around this new issue, and at the student vote the proposed measure was supported by the entire organization.

Stimulated by the opportunities for holding offices which the new constitution gave them, a large number of Independents began to take an active interest in student government. A candidate was entered in the presidential race that spring, and an influx of "non-orgs" was noted in many activities. In a number of elections for minor and class offices, combine candidates were given a close race by the Independents.

The two representatives from the Independents at large and the Manzanita and Lincoln Hall solons form a voting bloc of considerable power in the Senate. These votes, coupled with two Independent members of the Nominating Committee, have created a number of opportunities for the placement of "non-orgs" in office. Those who have been selected have served well, especially as members of the important Finance Control and Executive Committees.

Last fall the group was reorganized, with the women forming a separate body under Margaret Fuetsch, while the men students remained under the leadership of Elwin Jeffers. These two groups have worked to encourage Independent participation in student body activities in order that everyone might have the advantage of associating with different students.

With the decline of combine politics, and the gradual lessening of a general tendency to disregard the Independents, it will be a matter of only a few years until fraternity or sorority affiliations will make little difference to the voter when he appears at the polls, or casts his ballot in some organization election. When this happens, student government will be truly representative, and the Independents may justly feel that they have played a part in forming a better University of Nevada student body.

COMPETITION

V A R S I T Y

Even though the rugged style of man-to-man competition of the first silver days has passed beyond the hills, the new days of silver find the desire to win still the driving force . . . in sport or commerce.

J. E. MARTIE

Coach J. E. "Doc" Martie, veteran Wolf Pack basketball mentor, trained an inexperienced varsity this past season. Although this Wolf Pack's win record wasn't too impressive, the 1935-'36 squad shows possibilities of once again attaining the enviable position that Martie-coached teams have enjoyed for the past decade.

C. L. MITCHELL

Undaunted by victory or defeat, Coach Clifford "Brick" Mitchell led the University of Nevada Wolf Pack through the 1934 gridiron campaign to complete his third year as mentor of varsity football. FOOTBALL SEASON

When a fine turnout of material greeted Head Coach Clifford "Brick" Mitchell's initial call for the opening practice session last fall, hopes ran high on the Nevada campus for a winning year on the gridiron. Early season development of the team was remarkable among all the members of the squad, but early-season games against two of the strongest elevens of the coast and a series of unseasonal injuries played havoc with what had previously appeared to be a good year for Nevada football.

The lone victory of the season, a startling win over St. Mary's, was offset by the other results of the season, a scoreless tie and seven defeats.

Santa Clara University—Opening the west coast intercollegiate football season, in San Francisco's Kezar stadium on September 22, the Broncos of Santa Clara University soundly defeated Nevada's Wolf Pack by a score of 40 to nothing. The coasters lived up to their reputation of being a team that attains mid-season form by first game time. The game was doubly disastrous to the Nevadans as Paul Walker, first string tackle, was lost to the squad for the remainder of the season when he received a serious spinal injury in the third quarter of the contest.

The Wolf Pack displayed much offensive strength in all stages of the game but defensive power was lacking.

University of California—Playing brilliant offensive and defensive ball in the opening quarter, only to weaken when the old "bugaboo" of lack of reserve strength was brought to light, the Pack bowed to a powerful California Golden Bear squad by a score of 33 to 0 in the second game of the 1934 gridiron program.

Harvey Hill and Richard Haman, Wolf backs, running behind a fighting line, carried the pigskin to the baffled Bear's 4-yard stripe early in the first quarter. The Ingram-men "dug-in" and the Nevadans' most serious scoring threat was cut short.

CARROLL

The Nevada eleven won wide praise from many sport critics for the type of play it exhibited in this fray in which the California first string played most of the game.

California Aggies—Fought to a standstill by a scrapping ball team from the California Agricultural College in the initial game of the season on Mackay Field, the Nevada Wolf Pack was tied nothing to nothing. The game was marred by many fumbles and penalties equally divided between the two teams.

T. CASHILL

Neither team showed any great offensive power with the result that a fine exhibition of punting was furnished the large first home game crowd by Nevada's Haman and the Aggie's versatile Coombs. Both teams threw away scoring chances by poor handling of the ball on the soggy field.

Tom Cashill, Silver and Blue veteran center, dropped back of the line in the closing quarter for a place kick attempt, but his try for three points and a win for his team was broken up by the Aggie line.

St. Mary's—Nevada 9—St. Mary's 7! The sports world was dazzled by this victory over the highly rated Gaels.

Early in the first quarter, Nevada took advantage of a poor Gael punt. Starting on the opposition's thirty-yard stripe, an organized aerial attack quickly placed the ball within a yard of the Moragan's goal. Two line smashes into the center of the Gael forward wall failed and then George Tharp, big Wolf fullback, crashed over for a touchdown. Cashill's kick for conversion failed.

St. Mary's, gaining little in line plays in the second quarter, took to the air and a 35-yard pass was completed for a touchdown. Kellog's try for the extra point was good, making the half-time score 7 to 6 for St. Mary's.

The third quarter was featured by the Pack's sparkling defensive play. Russell Byington, small Nevada substitute guard, proved himself an iron man through his great defensive work in this period.

In the waning seconds of the game, with his team still trailing, Tom Cashill, standing near mid-field, booted a drop-kick squarely between the uprights to give the Sagebrushers three points and a total of nine, enough points for the Nevadans to eke out a narrow 9 to 7 win. This victory brought the fighting Wolf Pack acclaim from the entire sporting world.

University of California Ramblers — Encountering unlooked-for opposition in the second home game of the year, the Wolf Pack was defeated by the traveling squad of the University of California, the Ramblers, by a score of 7 to 0. The winning score came in the second quarter.

Richard Haman's punting was the sensation of the game. He averaged nearly 51 yards on each attempt.

Untimely fumbles cost the Pack their two scoring chances. The game, played on a wet, slippery field, was a slow contest, with neither team showing any wealth of defensive or offensive strength. The visitors outgained the Nevadans, obtaining most of their yardage by means of the clever line smashing ability of Moyer, a backfield man who played with the Bear varsity several weeks after his Nevada appearance.

Flournoy, Cromwell, and Sauer in the Wolf Pack backfield, and Tapogna in the Nevada line, turned in good performances in their defensive work.

The visiting eleven, composed of men of near varsity caliber from the Berkeley institution, was the outstanding visiting team of the home schedule. The Ramblers accounted for nearly all of their yardage through running formations.

San Jose State—Displaying an unsteady brand of football before a large Homecoming Day crowd, University of Nevada's Wolf Pack bowed to a colorful San Jose State eleven to the tune of a ten to nothing score. The scores were made in the second and fourth quarters. A place kick by Simoni, left tackle of the State team, and an intercepted pass from Nevada's Haman to this same visiting player, plus his conversion, accounted for the afternoon's scoring festivities.

No alibis were needed—one Dario Simoni played a great game for the invaders. He played a fine defensive game and his alert movements gave this linesman the unusual distinction of scoring all of his team's points. Most of the Nevada players agreed that this veteran was one of the outstanding visitors of the entire schedule, on defense or offense. Douglas McDow, flashy Wolf half, accounted for the majority of the yardage gained from scrimmage by the Sagebrush aggregation during the afternoon.

College of Pacific—Ending whatever chances the Wolf Pack had of copping the Far Western Conference championship, the Bengals of the College of Pacific whipped the Nevadans in a night game played at Stockton by a score of 14 to nothing. The game was a listless affair with both teams fumbling often.

The second serious injury of the season to be sustained by a Nevada player happened early in the opening quarter when George Tharp, Nevada's big fullback, was taken from the field with a serious back injury and several cracked ribs.

Pacific's tricky spinners, aided by hard-fought, straight football, brought a touchdown in each of the second and third quarters. A blocked kick in the first quarter paved the way for Pacific's first score, while a fumbled punt recovered by Pacific on Nevada's five yard line gave the Tigers their chance to tally the second and final touchdown of the evening.

High kicks, poorly handled by Nevada's backs who were not accustomed to playing under the artificial lighting system, gave Pacific several breaks and kept the ball in Nevada territory most of the game. That the two teams were evenly matched was indicated by the fact that Pacific piled up ten first downs, aided materially by Nevada penalties, while the Wolf Pack marked up eight first downs for their evening's efforts.

Chico State—A well drilled Chico State aerial attack, coupled with an accurate-kicking Wildcat backfield ace, spelled defeat for Nevada in the final home appearance of the year. The score of this farewell battle was 9 to 6.

No man on the field played the bang-up game that was credited to Captain Jenks of the invaders. When the Wolf line stiffened in the third quarter, Jenks drop-kicked his team to the narrow margin of victory.

Chico opened the scoring five minutes after the game started, when a pass from Haynes to Bowe culminated a long march down the field to a touchdown and a temporary lead.

An enraged Nevada team drove back to score a touchdown on thirteen smashing line plays, ending when Haman passed to Carroll, who fell over the goal line. Incidentally, this was the Wolf Pack's only score on the home field for the entire season. The half score was 6-6.

With half of the third quarter passed and Nevada line proving to be too much of an obstacle, Jenks of Chico stood on the Nevada twelve-yard line and sent a drop-kicked ball through the uprights for three points and put his team out into a 9 to 6 lead which they held for the remainder of the contest. The fourth quarter settled down into an old-fashioned punting duel in which neither team did any considerable ground-gaining.

Harvey Hill, playing his final home game in Nevada colors, made a conspicuous farewell by his clever end sweeps and off tackle plunges which comprised most of the Wolf Pack's gains from scrimmage.

Fresno State—The Wolf Pack of Nevada was plunged deeper into the cellar when Fresno State walked off the raisin center gridiron with a 33 to 0 win in a Thanksgiving Day encounter. This, the final game on the schedule, found the Nevada team hard hit for reserve strength because of injuries.

Nevada's Wolves, greatly hampered by the loss of two of its outstanding backfield men, Tharp and Haman, were no match for the slashing Bulldogs. The stars of the Teachers' backfield, Van Osdel and Byrd, began their ground gaining tactics shortly after the opening of the first quarter and from then on there was no doubt as to the outcome of the game. Van Osdel went over the last Wolf line for two of his mates' touchdowns. Byrd bore the brunt of the interference, taking Nevada men out with precision. Capitalizing on several Nevada fumbles, the Staters ran up a 20 to 0 lead by half time and then coasted through to an easy victory. The Wolf Pack did not threaten the State goal line once during the game.

In the closing minutes of play the Wolves opened up a gallant last stand passing attack with Richard Sauer doing most of the throwing work. This attempt to score was short lived, however, as Cramer, a substitute Bulldog halfback, intercepted one of Sauer's thrusts to check the belated Nevada bid to break into the scoring column. The Nevada team appeared badly disorganized.

BASKETBALL SEASON

After showing great promise in breezing through several pre-season games with local teams, Nevada's Wolf Pack wound up with one of the poorest records in many years.

Throughout the year the Nevada hoopsters showed a tendency to make an impressive first-half showing but would fade badly in the closing moments of the games. Coach J. E. "Doc" Martie's squad was hard hit by injuries several times, and was badly handicapped by the ineligibility of seven varsity players or one-half of the original squad. Nevada's system of play was also disrupted by the conference adoption of the no-tip-off rule.

Chico State—The Wolves opened the regular season by scoring an impressive 44 to 40 victory over Chico State. This win proved to be the Nevadan's only conference victory of the year. The visiting Wildcats came back in the closing minutes of the second game of the series and beat Nevada, 45 to 38. Bruce Gould, veteran center, chalked up 34 points in the two contests against Chico.

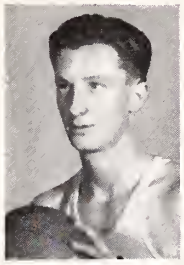

San Jose State—At San Jose the Pack was nosed out by a 26 to 24 score in a very close game. The lead see-sawed back and forth until a last minute spurt put the Spartans ahead. The next night the Wolves were unable to hit their stride, and this, coupled with hard luck, resulted in a 40 to 25 defeat.

House of David—Against the barnstorming House of David team, the Pack made an impressive showing in the first half, and when the period ended Nevada was in the lead. Late in the game the bewhiskered clowns brought forth all their trick plays and deceptive passes to overtake the Wolves, winning the colorful contest by a score of 37 to 27.

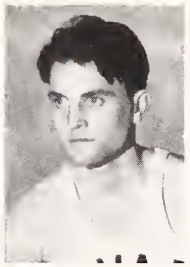

The game we enlivened by frequent encounters between players and officials. One of the biggest crowds of the season packed the university gym.

Fresno State—Fresno's fast-stepping five, which later captured the conference championship, took both games of a doubleheader from the Wolves in classy style.

Nevada started strong in the first game and battled on even terms the first half with the Bulldogs. When Fresno's main team entered the contest, they soon snowed the tiring Nevadans under with clever passing and superior speed. The final score was 44 to 36.

DE LA MARE
Forward

The second night the Wolves appeared headed for a win, and maintained a big lead for the first half. The Bulldogs slowly forged into the lead after a nip-and-tuck battle, then a series of last minute baskets brought the score to 42-31 in favor of the Californians.

Gould took high-point honors for Nevada, while De La Mare and Glusovich were outstanding performers.

College of Pacific—Nevada was unable to hold the College of Pacific Tigers in either game of the series, although they put up courageous battles in both contests. In the first game the Wolves were trounced 33 to 26.

Nevada threatened in the first half several times, but faded near the end of the contest. The Pack held the lead but once in the entire game.

The final game was more thrilling and much closer. Gould was high point man of the first game while Kelley took individual scoring honors in the second contest.

Broadway Clowns — While the "funniest team in America" was amusing the biggest crowd of the season, the Nevada Wolf Pack was piling up enough points to take a 24 to 15 victory.

This game was Nevada's second and last win of the year. The negro clowns displayed the most dazzling attack seen on the local court in many seasons. Nevada's second string held the dusky stars on even terms for the first half. In the final period the visitors were too tired to stop the offense of the Wolf regulars, who were working with speed and precision.

The Clowns thrilled the audience with lightning-like passing, and with flashy plays. Tregellas and Phillips were outstanding for the Pack.

The second night Nevada again got off to a good start and for a while held a short lead. In the last half the Gaels commenced hitting the basket frequently and pulled away from the fighting Pack. With only a few minutes to go the Pack staged a desperate rally but were unable to overcome the tremendous lead of the Californians. The score was 54 to 26.

The second night the Pack showed a complete reversal of form and forced the Aggies to the limit to eke out a close victory in the final game of the season. The Wolves were handicapped by the loss of Gould via the personal foul route shortly after the start. Nevada put on a courageous come-back in the closing moments of the game, but was nosed out by 40-34 score. Gould brought his season total to 134 points.

The Nineteen Thirty-Five Season—Martie should have a dandy ball club next year, since none of this season's squad will be lost by graduation. If those men whe were ineligible to play return to the squad next January, the hoop mentor will have an abundance of material with which to work.

TRACK SEASON

Coach C. L. "Brick" Mitchell's track and field squad made a creditable showing during the 1934 season, winning one dual meet, losing one, and turning in a fair performance at the conference meet. The most outstanding showing of the year was made in the California Aggie meet in Reno. Ten men were awarded Block N sweaters at the end of the season. These included Roy Caldwell Ole Theis, Ralph Hromadka, Lynn Gerow, Ross Hart, Samuel Arentz, Leland Ward, Cecil Stowell, Harvey Hill, and Paul Leonard.

Chico State—Although they broke five existing meet records, the Nevada tracksters lacked enough man power to defeat Chico State's cinder path artists. The Wildcats took the meet by a score of 80 to 50.

The outstanding Nevada performers were the veterans Paul Leonard and Harvey Hill. Leonard smashed the meet record in the mile run with the fast time of 4:33, and also captured first place in the two mile with ease.

Hill took the 100-yard dash in the record smashing time of 9.6. He followed up this achievement with a new record of 21.7 in the 220, and then placed third in the high jump to gather a total of 11 points in the meet. Other members of the Wolf Pack who broke meet records against Chico were Ole Theis, who heaved the discus out 131 feet, and Ross Hart, who broad-jumped 22 feet 2 inches.

Ralph Hromadka takes the second set of hurdles on even terms with a fast field of entrants from coast colleges at the Far Western Meet held in Sacramento last spring.

California Aggies—The Wolf Pack swamped the California Aggies by a 93 to 37 score, allowing the visitors but three first places.

Ross Hart, Nevada star, took individual scoring honors in the meet, winning both the high jump and broad jump, and placing second in both the sprints.

Harvey Hill captured first place in both the 100 and 220-yard dashes in fast time. Paul Leonard had but little difficulty in annexing the mile race, and Sam Arentz finished first in the two mile run.

Lynn Gerow, Ole Theis, and Marvin Turner scored a clean sweep in the shot put, while Theis took a first in the discus. Cecil Stowell won the javelin, and Roy Caldwell annexed first place in the pole vault.

Nevada also swept the half mile race, with Lee Ward, Frank Leonard, and Paul Leonard finishing in that order. The visitors conceded the relay to Nevada because of lack of entrants.

Far Western Conference—The University of Nevada took fourth place in a field of classy entrants at the Far Western Conference meet, held at Sacramento and won by Fresno State. The few Wolves who entered the meet garnered twelve and a half points.

Paul Leonard finished second in the mile behind Hotchkiss of Fresno, who smashed the conference record. Leonard's time was also better than the former record. In the two mile race the rangy Nevadan took second place. Harvey Hill annexed second place in the 100-yard dash, and then finished fourth in the 220. Ross Hart tied for second place in the high jump, which was won by Walter Marty of Fresno, present holder of the world's record in this event.

Nineteen Thirty-Five Track—Coach "Brick" Mitchell's track and field squad will be badly handicapped in the 1935 season by the loss of several men on whom Nevada was counting heavily for points.

Ross Hart, versatile athlete who was a standby of the team last year, did not return to Nevada this year. Harvey Hill, who has been Nevada's leading sprinter for three seasons, is unable to compete because of poor health. These two men were usually able to account for about a third of their team's points.

Several outstanding performers on last year's powerful frosh team did not return to the university this season.

GEROW
Shotput

Although held back by adverse weather conditions and a poor track this spring, the Nevada squad gives promise of developing some individual stars. Several sophomores will bolster the squad and may give sensational showings later this season.

The lettermen who form the nucleus of the 1935 team are Paul Leonard, distances, Lynn Gerow, weights, and Lee Ward, in the middle distances, Dale Hart, quartermiler, and Roy Caldwell in the pole vault.

On the basis of his showing last season, Leonard will make a strong bid for a new conference record this year.

TENNIS SEASON

Nevada's tennis team began strenuous workouts early in April in preparation for the current season, with eighteen aspirants trying out for the varsity. At the conclusion of a ladder system, by means of which a player was privileged to challenge either of the two ranking players above him, Coach Scranton announced that the following men were to compose the 1935 squad: James Herz, Walter Bowrin, Anthony Leone, Leonard Voorhies, Vernon Tapogna, Craig Moore, Irvin Wanke, and Jack Elliott. Of these Bowrin, Tapogna, and Wanke are lettermen of last year's squad.

Circle "N's" with white sweaters are awarded by the associated students to participants who have won at least one match in intercollegiate competition. The three ranking players who compete in the Far Western Conference meet are automatically eligible for the award.

Matches arranged this year included Chico State college in Reno and several matches with the Reno Tennis Club. Tentative matches have been arranged with the University of San Francisco at the bay city and with the College of Pacific at Stockton.

Last year the Nevada team enjoyed a highly successful season, defeating both Chico State and College of Pacific in intercollegiate matches. Nevada showed up well in the Far Western tennis meet held last spring in Sacramento. Last year's lettermen include Sam, Elliott, Clark, Bowrin, Tapogna, and Wanke.

FRESHMAN FOOTBALL

This year only two games were played by the Freshman football team. Instead, scrimmages were held with the varsity team in order to acquaint the yearlings with Nevada tactics. A vacancy created by Chester Scranton who resigned as Freshman coach, was filled by Seaborn Caldwell. Coach Caldwell was a former Nevada student and played on the varsity in 1929 and 1931.

On November 3 the Cubs played the strong Lassen County Junior College to a scoreless tie on Mackay field. Both teams were hampered during the game by a strong wind that nullified several scoring efforts. Unfortunately for the Freshmen, Rodriguez, Powell, and Basta, three stars, were unable to play. The rest of the squad, however, showed up to advantage with McDonald, Spitz, Smith, Nash, and Stewart doing excellent work in the line. Segerbloom, Metten, Lemmon, and Kepl played exceptional football in the backfield.

On November 17 the yearlings again met Lassen J. C. as a preliminary to the Nevada-Chico game. Although bothered by a rain storm the Freshmen overwhelmed their opponents, scoring nineteen points to nothing for Lassen.

The Freshman team was composed of many individual stars from over the state. Prominent on the team were: Lemmon, Kepl, Rodriguez, Segerbloom, Basta, Powell, Gravelle, Smith, Stewart, Nash, Metten, and Varnum.

FRESHMAN BASKETBALL

Playing a full schedule of games, the Freshman basketball team upheld the excellent reputation of last year's Frosh, dropping only three games out of fifteen scheduled. Ably coached by Chester Scranton, the team was well drilled in fundamental plays.

Of the three losses to high schools two were to Sparks and one to Carson City. Beginning the season on January 11, the Frosh won from Stewart 35-17. The following night Reno High School was defeated 28-16. On January 15, Yerington dropped a game to the Cubs 27-14. January 18 Sparks drubbed the Freshmen 21-16. Revengeful the Cubs next night beat Lovelock, 30-26. Another upset on January 26 gave Carson 21 and Nevada 15. On February 7, Yerington lost again 26-14. The first victory over Gardnerville, February 15, ended 32-14. The next night Virginia City lost 30-26. One week after the first defeat Gardnerville lost again 36-16. The last game and the most thrilling was on February 23, when Sparks staged a last minute comeback to defeat the yearlings by only one point, the score being Sparks, 32, and Freshmen, 31. One game was won by the Frosh in the series with the Junior Varsity Whites, though the Whites had defeated the underclassmen twice before.

The basketball team is composed of former high school stars. Several of the players were particularly outstanding and will probably get places on the varsity teams. Freshmen numerals were awarded to 22 men.

FRESHMAN TRACK

The 1934 Freshman track team was a fast, well-balanced outfit. It concluded one of the most successful seasons ever experienced by a Nevada Frosh squad by completing the schedule undefeated. The present year's track team was materially aided by the influx of these tracksters with their promising abilities.

The first meet of the Frosh track season was the annual interclass event, where they won a decisive victory, scoring sixty-nine points. Outstanding performances were those of Haman, Richards, and McDow. Haman took four first places and broke two university records. In the interfraternity meet the next week the Freshmen showed up brilliantly. Competing for their various fraternities they scored clean sweeps in the high hurdles, relay, pole vault, and low hurdles, and took most of the places in the broad jump, shotput, 100 and 220-yard dashes, high jump, and javelin. The following week the squad won over Reno and Yerington high schools by a score of 76, 24, and 25. They took twelve out of a possible fourteen first places. Haman, Smith, and Smalley showed up especially well in the weights. Mangum, Richards, Segerbloom, and Robb accounted for a majority of their team's points. In the closing meet of the year the yearlings won a four cornered dual despite the absence of several freshmen mainstays. They garnered forty-eight points leaving Susanville with forty-three and one-third points. Reno was third.

The Phi Sig's ball club squints into the sun, and Robb waits hopefully for the pill that Leonard lifts into the ozone. Hand almost beats the cross-country record. Bu-ru swats one.

Sigma Phi Sigma's handball team and Sigma Nu's volleyball team take all comers. Carter pitches a mean horseshoe for Lincoln Hall, but the Taus get the copper stein at the bean feed last spring. Then we have Voorheis, handball singles champ, and below, the Sigma Nu basketball team. Christian bangs a hot grounder one afternoon.

S N A P S H O T S

As always, the great picture themselves the reincarnation of fancy's hero. The spirit roaming over deeds never done . . . a human trait to wish that days had not moved on, and opportunity still beckoned.

Here come the victors. Harvey puts one over on Prof. Lehenbauer. Flournoy talks it over with the officials. The team gets off the train. Ward and the boys really rally. Above the Journal Press is a "Sooner" Club meeting. A truckload of Hall kind of students. Publicity Carr in his She-Jinks outfit. The Ruckus cast. Celebrating our St. Mary's win.

The seniors cross the quad, and enter the gym. A speech at the memorial bench. Lieut. Wilcox connects in the senior-faculty game. Sallie's birthday. The new and old prexies shake. Senator Pittman, Dr. Clark and "Doc" Martie after Commencement exercises. The honorary board of visitors inspects the campus. Si Feemster's smoke ball.

The gallery cheers madly, as the frosh and sophs do bloody battle in the tire rush. "Watch the bubble, boys" says Prof. Bixby. Nevada Day Queen Aznarez and her consorts. Just four good pals. A portion of a Pan-Hell tea. Our tumblers who put on some good acts this year. "Gussie" and "La" at work. Prexy Jim goes in the moat, just on general principles.

Assistant track managers keep check on where Gerow puts the shot. "Hurry up! I'm cold," say the Theta swimmers. DeGroot and "Brick" shake after the Homecoming game. "No mail today". A practice swim at Moana. Football assistant managers, with pipes and dog. DeKinder climbs out of the moat. Red Jensen's gang of B.B. managers. The faculty athletes go in for badminton.

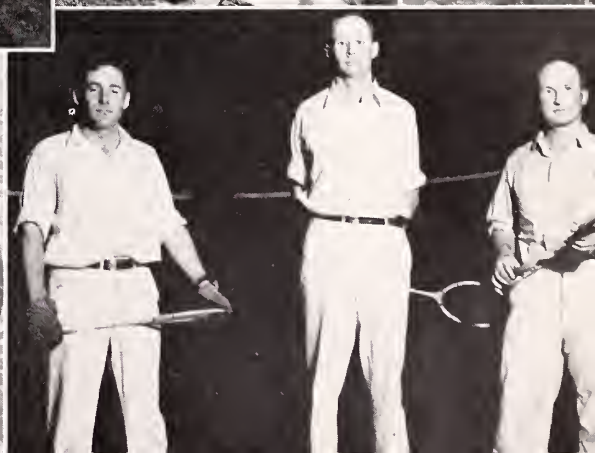

A story in pictures of Homecoming Day—The Pi Phi's exhibit the Mackay Statue. The cross-country race begins. That bonfire was plenty warm. The SAE float. The Tri-Delt prize float. Speakers at the rally. Band capers. Checking in. The Sigma Nu entry. Frolic backstage. Nevada's twins. The Lambda Chi Toonerville prize winner.

Journalism plus. The International Relations Club with a relation. Jack Hughes in an uplifting endeavor—Rah! Rah! The Press Club remembers Mark Twain. Just The Cub. Three new Honor Roll members. What, no dance? Mikado Deming had the finished touch of an artist (Japanese). Mardi Gras. High school editors of Nevada as guests of the Press Club.

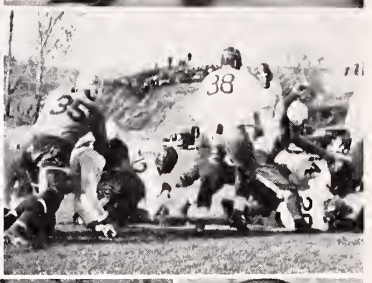

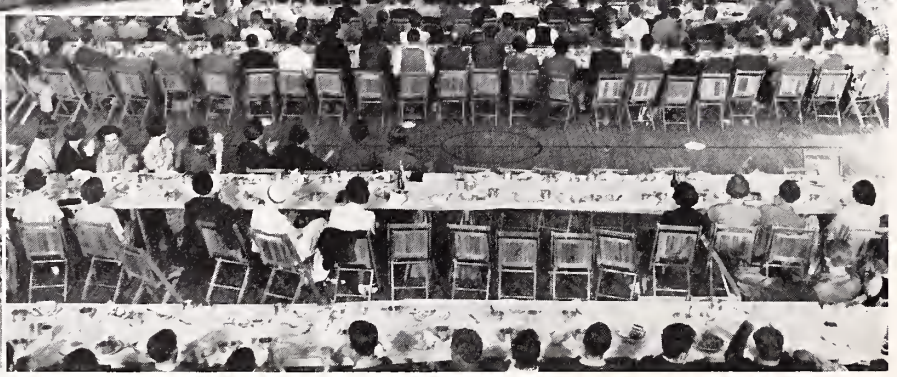

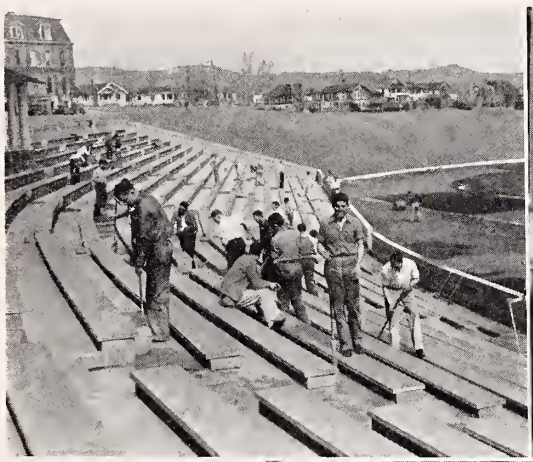

Costumes galore, at the Mackay Day Whiskerino dance. The Block "N" waits while the frosh partake. Mildren reveals his West Point smile, and the boys line up for Mackay Day to check their facial foliage. "Doc" rakes a few leaves in doing his bit. Queen-picker Dick Powell. Sallie receives a box of candy at the luncheon.

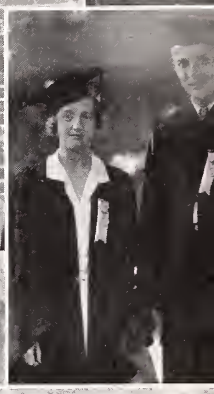

The bleachers get their Mackay Day swabbing. Phi Kappa Phi initiates. Watch that barrel! Size, of course, makes no difference in the beard. Johnson and Hartman, '34 Gold medalists. Mackay Day assortment of cups (with winners). Work?—Oh, yes, the faculty cleaned the courts and the frosh painted the "N".

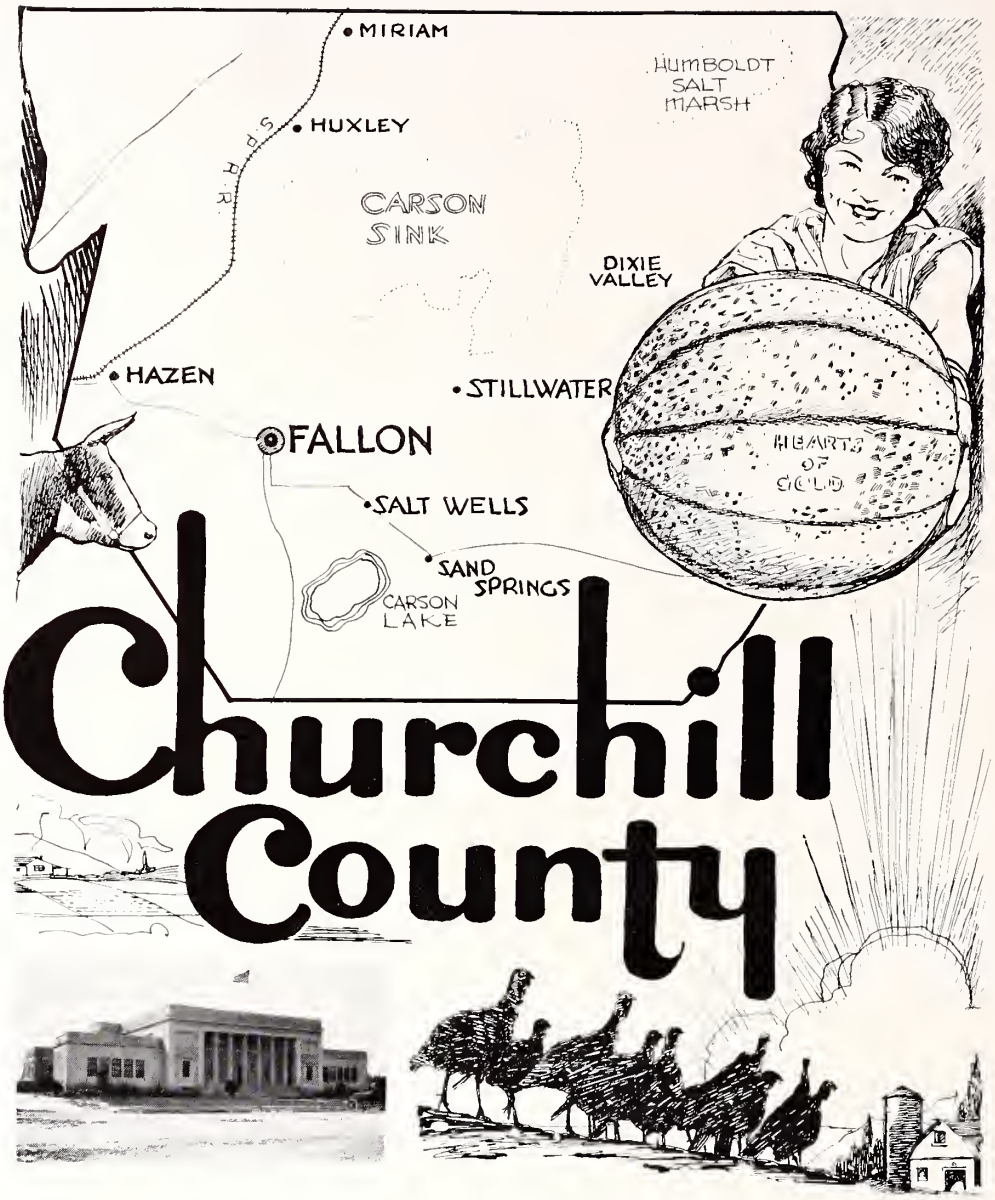

Paul Leonard finishes the two-mile. Caught unaware at the "N". Craig seems topheavy. Hart gashes his leg at Sacramento. Dr. Young spreads a little white paint. The band stunt Homecoming Day. "And the farmer ---". More Mardi Gras costumes. The Frosh Glee seems to be crowded. The snow didn't stop these LHA boys. J.D. peddles a little squash.

ADVERTISEMENTS

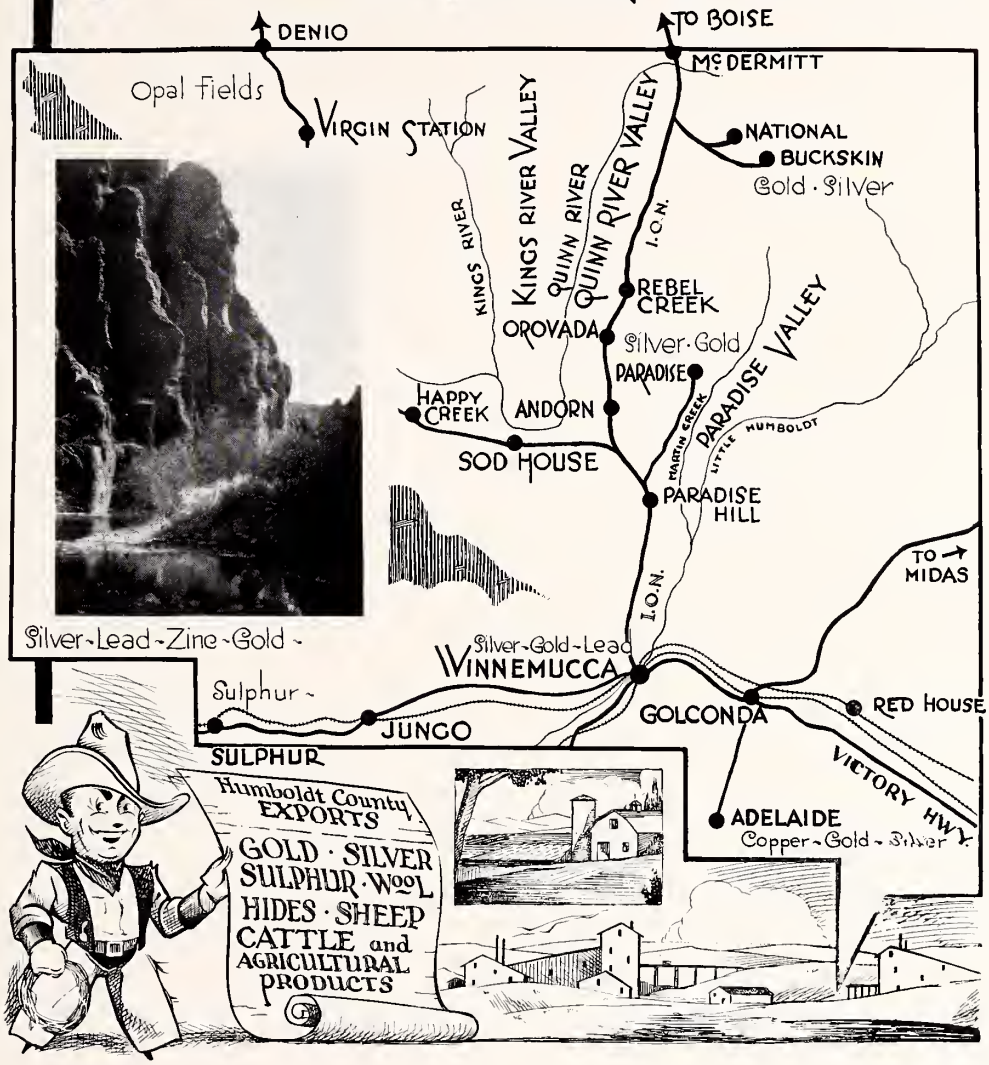

Dewey Captures Manila. The headlines sell the papers, but the ads pay the bills. The forest, making a gift of herself, that we may all know that Silver has again returned to her rightful throne.

Churchill is the leading agricultural county in Nevada and embraces the larger portion of the government Newlands irrigation district. Fallon turkeys and Hearts of Gold canteloupes grown in this area are favored from the Pacific coast to the Atlantic for their superior quality. More than five hundred of the seven hundred farms are provided with modern equipment such as water pressure systems, electricity and attractive homes.

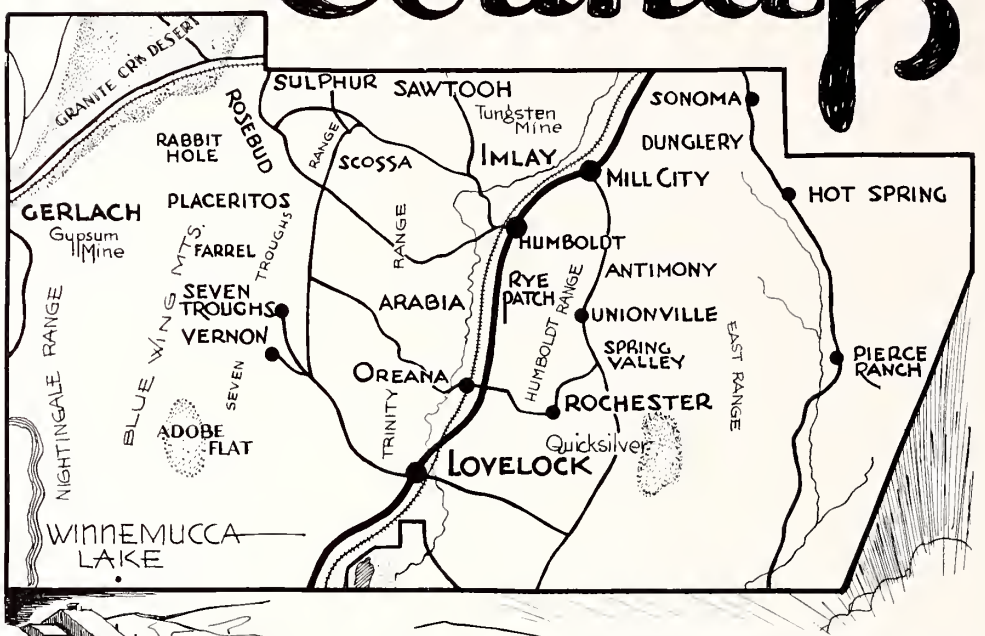

Fallon, Churchill county seat, is one of the more important highway centers of Nevada. Paved roads radiate in five directions including the Lincoln highway and the Pacific Northwest-Los Angeles all-winter route. The Churchill county high school is Nevada's second largest with an imposing building and two blocks of campus. The consolidated grade school district ranks among the best in the nation. Nine church organizations are active.

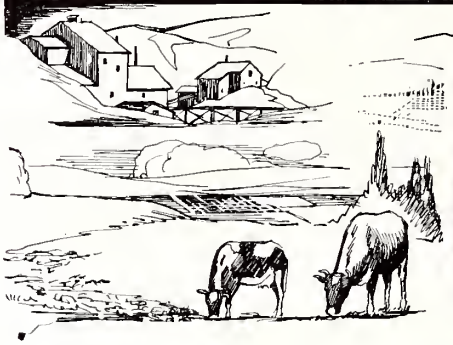

HUMBOLDT COUNTY . .

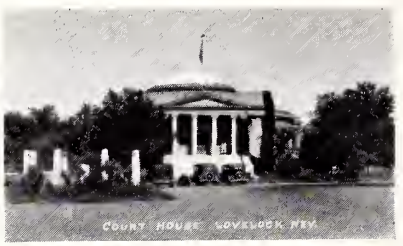

Humboldt County has a population of 3795 people, with Winnemucca, which has a population of 2000, as the county seat. This county is in northern Nevada, next to the Oregon line, between Washoe and Elko counties. Among the important industries are, mining, cattle and sheep industries, and agriculture. National, Buckskin, Happy Creek, and Adelaide are noted for silver and gold mining. The Southern Pacific and Western Pacific Railways, as well as the Victory Highway, pass through Winnemucca. An important connecting link between Nevada and Idaho, is the I. O. N. Cutoff, which is a highway now being constructed between Winnemucca and Boise, Idaho. The exports of Humboldt County are gold, silver sulphur, wool, hides, sheep, cattle, and agricultural products.

Pershing County

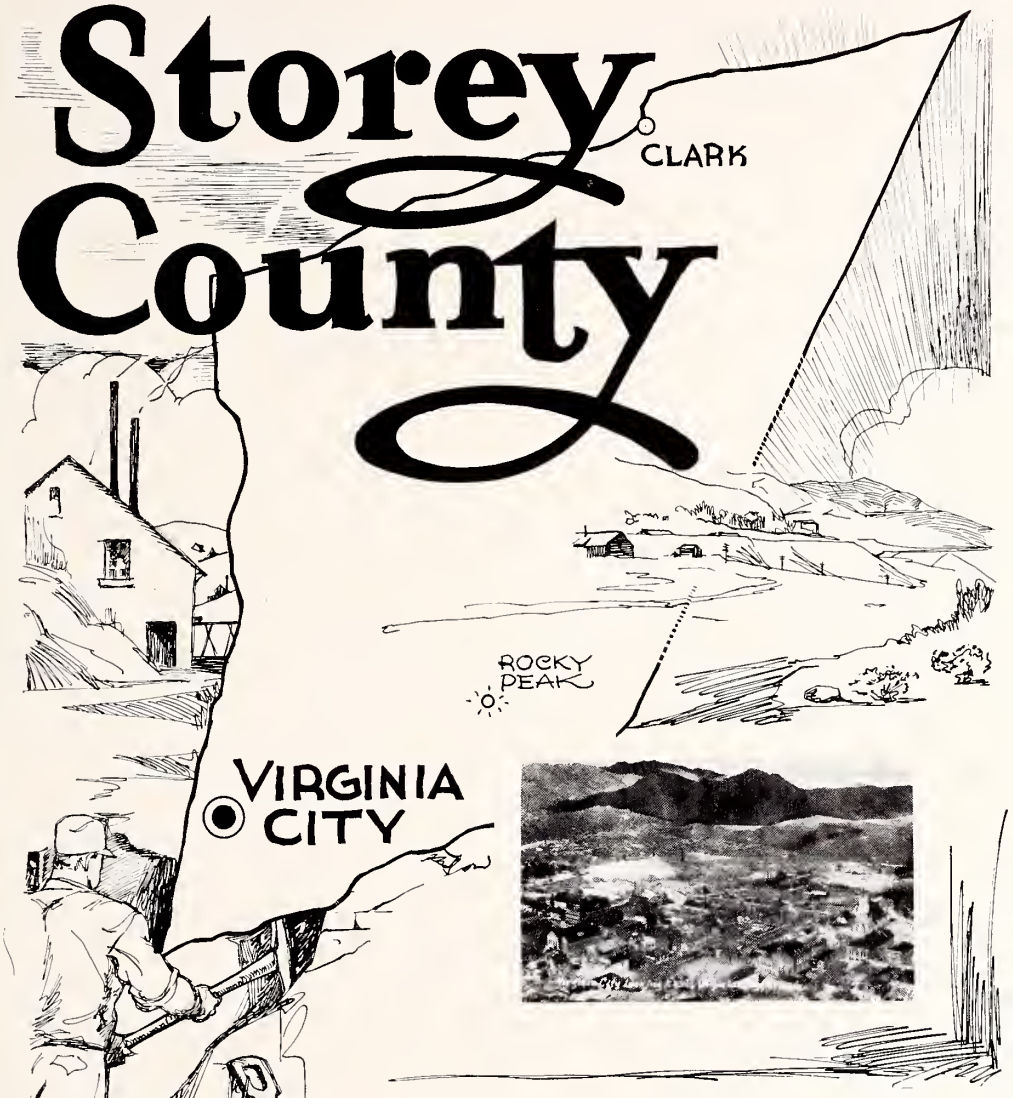

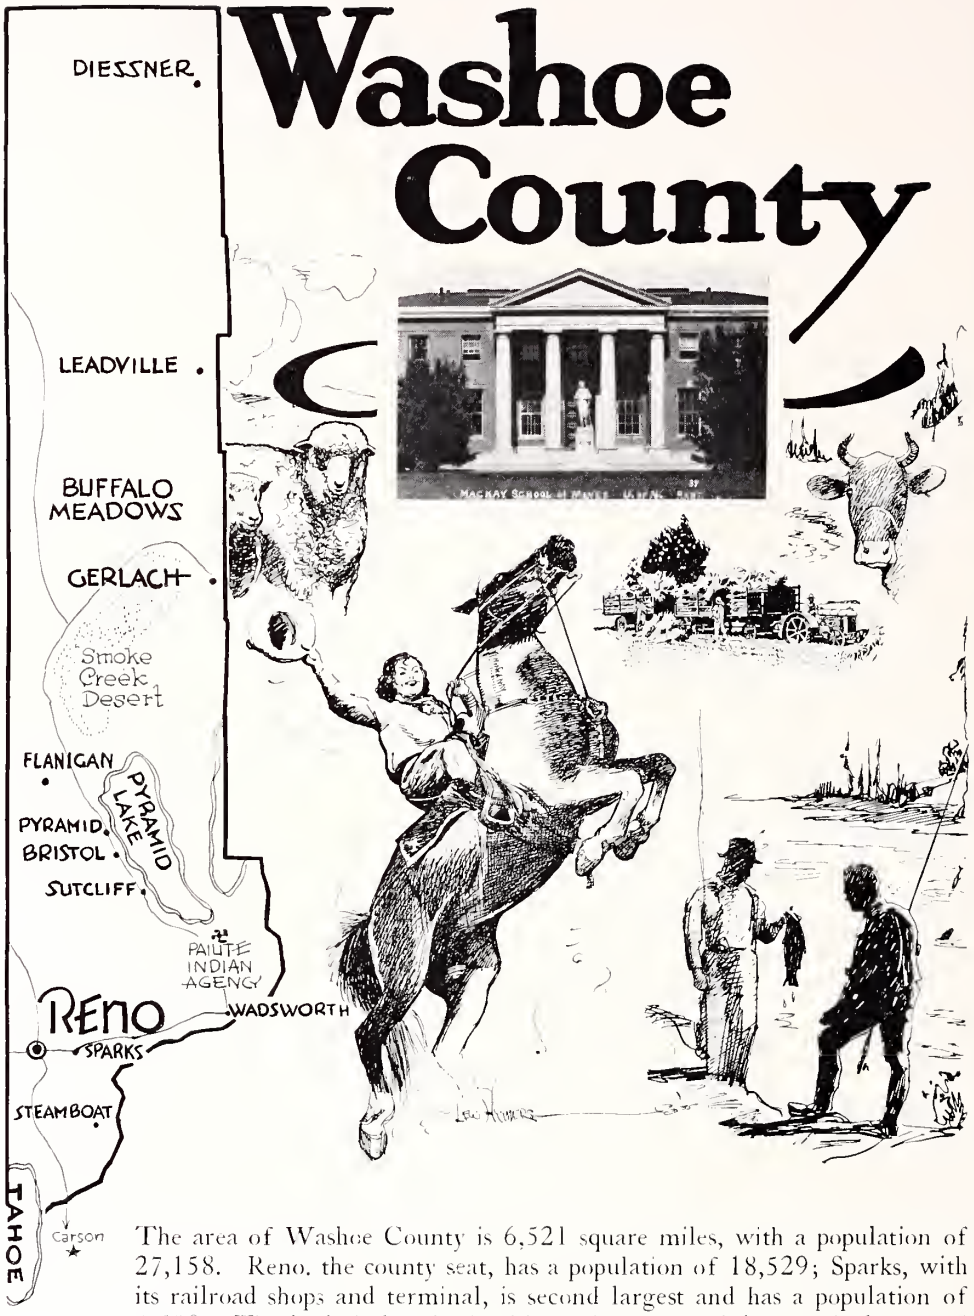

Offers unexcelled opportunities in live stock, farming, and mining. It is crossed by two transcontinental railroads and a national highway, and is close to good markets . . . Lovelock Valley, the principal farming section, has ideal soil and raises finest quality alfalfa and grain. The Reclamation Service is now building a dam on the Humboldt River to store 166,000 acre feet of water for irrigation, assuring future prosperity. This will be completed in 1936. The City of Lovelock is the county seat and is situated in the midst of the Valley. Is a fine little city with good schools, fine mountain water and nice homes . . . The gold and silver mines of Pershing County have produced many millions of wealth. The largest tungsten mine in America and the only duortierite mine in the world are situated in this county. Quicksilver, antimony, lead, pottery clays and polishing materials abound.

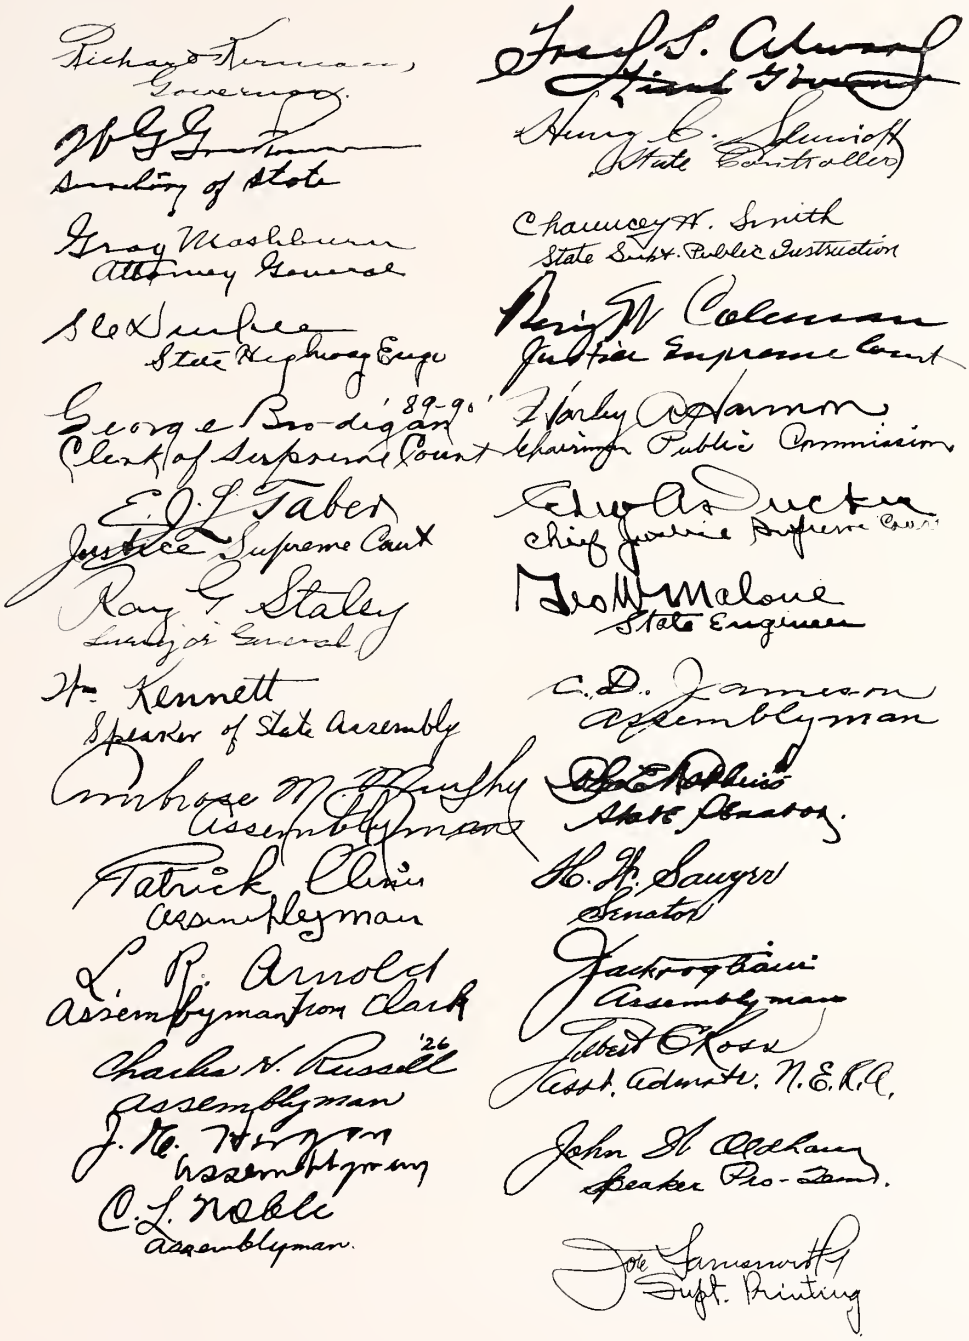

Storey County

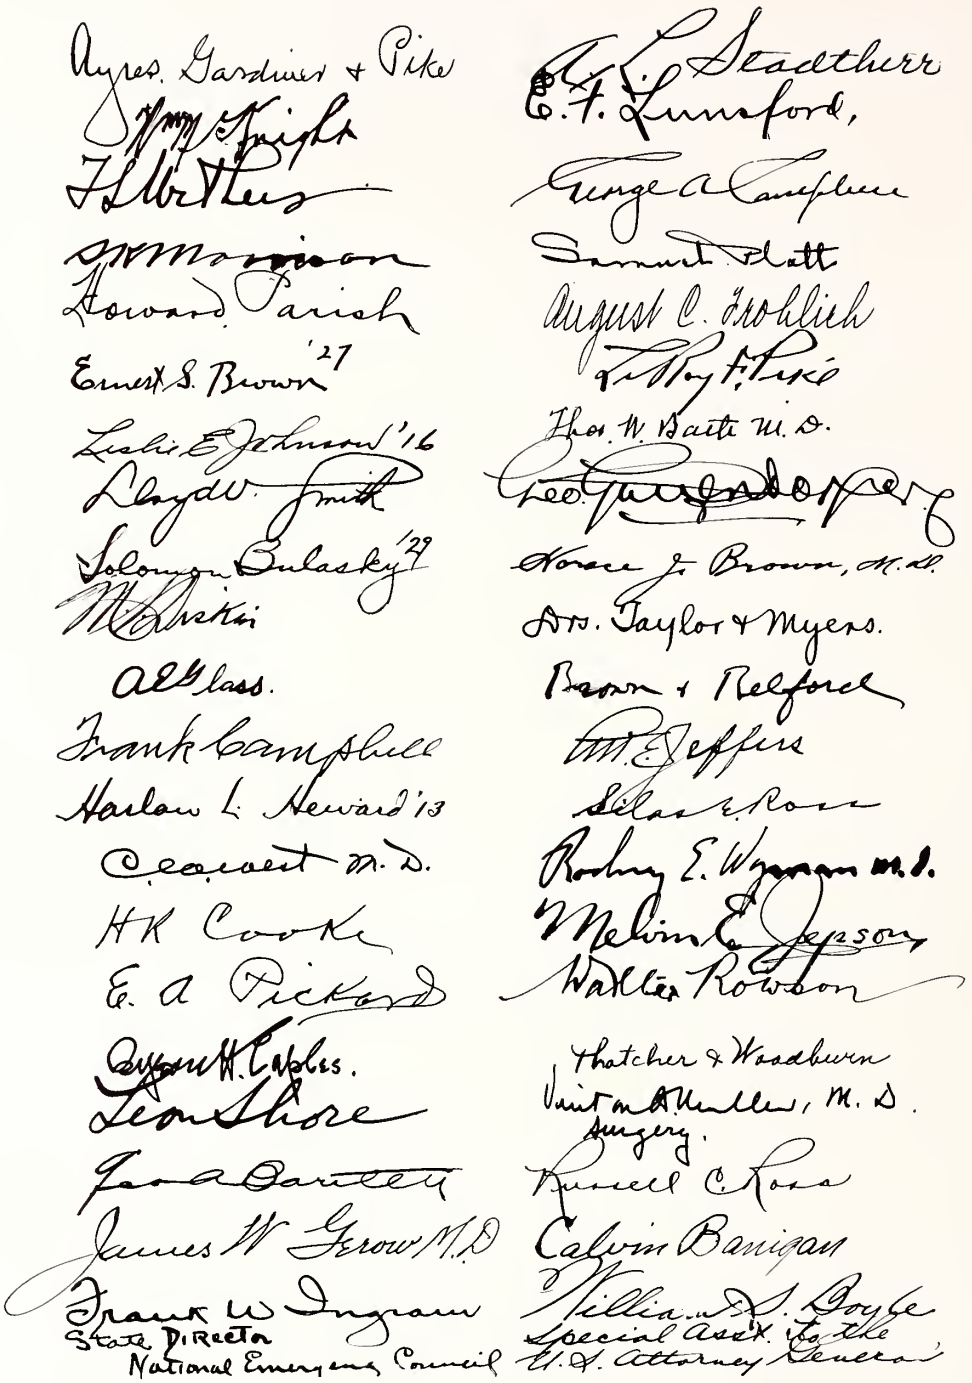

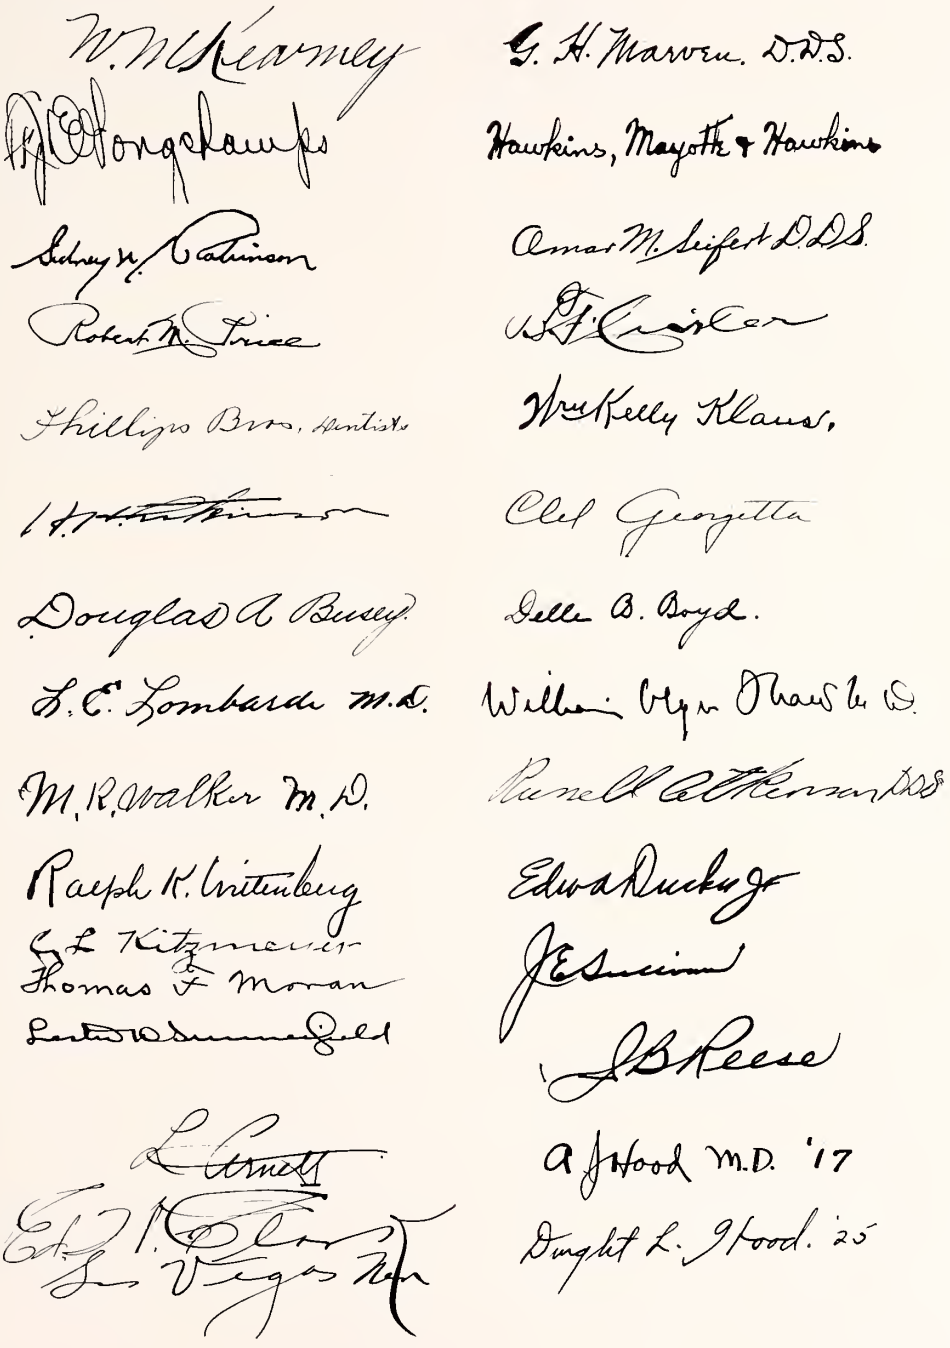

Situated on the slopes of Mt. Davidson, lies the most unusual Ghost City in America. Virginia City in 1876, had a population of 40,000, the lode having been discovered, January 20, 1859. From the output of this remarkable lode, Virginia City was able to finance the government in Civil War Days . . . The Comstock Lode extends from the Utah mine on the north to the Alta on the south and the entire distance of about four miles can be traversed underground, without once having come to the surface. There are 600 miles of underground workings. The deepest shaft is the Combination, which goes down 3,262 feet. The deepest workings are the Mexican winze, which are about 3,300 feet. Sutro tunnel and its laterals, are nine miles long, and tap the central part of the lode at a depth of 1,650 feet . . . The total output to date is $900,000,000, $500,000,000 in silver and $400,000,000 in gold . . . Located but 28 miles from Reno, via Gieger Grade, 14 miles from Carson City, and 28 miles from Glenbrook, Lake Tahoe; Virginia City provides a great historical and remininscent pleasure for tourists as well as Nevada residents.

The area of Washoe County is 6,521 square miles, with a population of 27,158. Reno, the county seat, has a population of 18,529; Sparks, with its railroad shops and terminal, is second largest and has a population of 4,508. The basic industries in this territory are mining, agriculture and the production of livestock and lumber . . . In the vicinity of Reno and Sparks approximately 35,000 acres of land are under cultivation and the more important crops consist of alfalfa, potatoes, grains, onions and garden crops. The dairying and poultry raising industries are rapidly growing in importance . . . Washoe County has an excellent highway system offording direct routes from the East and all Pacific Coast points. Reno is the center of the Nevada Highway system and an important diversion point for the entire West and Intermountain region. The University of Nevada is located in Reno.

APPRECIATION

Few students have the rare opportunity during their college life of participating in work which is as interesting or as helpful as the publishing of a yearbook. It is a privilege which is sincerely appreciated by the 1935 editor, for the many contacts made during the year, and the experience gained in the diversified work which has been done will be very valuable in years to come. The editor's only hope is that the results, embodied in this volume, justify the confidence which has been placed in his hands.

The work which has been done by the editorial and business staffs has been invaluable. Serving without any prospects of remuneration or material reward, these students have assisted all year in gathering the material, mounting pictures, "chasing" ads, and doing innumerable other things in order that The Artemisia might be as complete as possible. For their particularly outstanding work during the year, the editor and manager wish to sincerely thank Fred Hartman for his excellent handling of the organization lists; Walter Bowrin, Rita Jepson, Dorothy Roseberry, Evamae Beemer, Eunice Caton, and Robert Nelligan, for their valuable help during the crucial period of mounting pictures and whipping the copy into final shape; Winifred Walsh, Mary Corecco, Cletus Libbey, and Theodore Olds for their outstanding work in gathering ads.

Employees and heads of every business firm who have worked on The Aretmisia have been far more helpful during the year than was called for in their contracts. Mr. Shipaugh and Mr. Ted Krebs of the Reno Printing Company have succeeded in turning out what we believe is a very excellent job of typography, in spite of considerable annoyance furnished by ye editor. And the presswork of Mr. Parrish will compare most favorably with that on any yearbooks in the country. The sincere interest which Mr. Harry Frost, manager of the Reno Printing Company, has displayed in the book is very gratifying. Expense has been of no moment when it was thought that the book could be improved in some way.

The services rendered by the entire staff of the Commercial Art and Engraving Company have also been an important factor in the production of the book. And the help given by Mr. Fussell and Mr. Brennan in solving the many problems which have arisen, and in laying out the book and doing the art work, has made then almost indespensable during the entire year.

The "mad photographer" wishes to thank Mr. Roy Curtis for starting him on the right track when he was taking the many pictures which appear in this book. Without his help whatever merit the pictures have would not have been obtained.

We feel very pleased to have obtained portraits which reproduce as well as do those taken by Mr. McElwain of the Paffrath Studio. The service given by him this year has been of great assistance.

Support of the Artemisia from a financial standpoint is most essential and in this connection we wish to sincerely thank the merchants of Reno and the professional and business men of the state for their loyal assistance.
